Discussion of the Forfeiture Bill in the House.

AN EARLY VOTE ON THE MILLS BILL. Report of the Minority of the Senate Pen sions Committee on the Veto Power— Other Washington Gossip. Washington, July 5.—[Special.]—Nearly all today's session of the house was occupied in discussing the land grant forfeiture bill and it only failed to pass on account of objection having been made on the ground that no quorum was present. Mr. Clements delivered a capital ten minutes speech. The substance is here given. He said:

I do not believe the management and conduct of the land grants subsidized railroads towards the government has been such as to demand any consideration of sympathy beyond their strict legal rights. Therefore, the limit of the power of congress to forfeit these lands is the only limit which I would consider in determining my vote. There is no more promising obligation on congress to the people of this country than to pass this bill, which, amended by the house committee, will reclaim from the grasp of these corporations and extend to the people for homes from fifty to seventy millions of acres. As there is a contention as to the extent of our power, I will vote for the largest forcit ure and leave the railroads to secure their rights in the courts. This manifestly public domain, earned and acquired by the blood, the sacrifices, the treasure and statesmanship of our fathers, is a sacred heritage and ought to be preserved for the homes of the people. a capital ten minutes speech. The substance

Already large bodies have passed in the hands of syndicates, foreign and domestic. It should be disposed of only in small bodies for actual homes of actual settlers at reasonable rates. The more unmortgaged homes and the fewer homeless people we have the greater will be our country and the happier the people.

The leaders on the republican side of the house notified Mr. Mills today, as appeared in these dispatches yesterday, that they will do nothing more to delay the vote on the tariff bill, and it now seems to be generally believed a vote will be had in ten days. The bill will probably be taken up tomorrow immediately a vote will be had in ten days. The bill will probably be taken up tomorrow immediately after the passage of the land forfeiture bill.

VETOING THE PENSION BILLS.

The President Sends the Senate a Message Returning Private Pension Bills.

Washington, July 5.—On motion of Mr. Edmunds, it was ordered that when the senate adjourn today it be till Monday.

Mr. Cullom gave notice that he would on Monday next ask the senate to consider the bill to amend the interstate commerce act.

A message from the president vetoring the bill granting a pension to Mary Ame Doherty was presented and read. It states that a large share of the report of the senate committee on pensions (adopted also by the house committee) consists of a petition in which the woman says that her husband, who had served in a New Jersey regiment, left her in 1805 and has not been heard of since. She had received a pension as the widow of Daniel Deberty until it was discovered that he was alive and living in Philadelphia and was himself drawing a pension there. She had succeeded in getting a pension in the first instance by much false swearing. The police records of Washington (where she has been living), showed her to be a very backharacter and that she had been under arrest nine times for drunkenness, larceny, creating disturbances and other misdemeanors. The theory seemed to be established (the president says), that no man who has served in the army could be a subject of death, or of impaired health, except as the result of army service, medical theories being set at maught. Even suicide was traced by devious and wonderful curious ways to service in the army, and the adjudications of the pension blread word in the result of a my service, medical theories being set at naught. good citizen, and would be satisfied with generous, fair and equal treatment. The pension list of the republic should be a roll of honor, not a matter of indiscriminate alma-giving. He had attempted to stem the tide of improvident pension enactments: but he still felt a share of responsibility in letting too many of them become laws.

The bill and message were referred to the committee on pensions, as were two other pension vetoes; one on the ground that death had no connection with service in the army, and the other on the ground that the records did the other on the ground that the records did not show that the soldier in question (said to have been an officer killed in the Custer mas-sacre) was in that expedition.

The conference report on the agricultural appropriation bill was presented and explain-ed in detail by Mr. Plumb. On one point the committee had been unable to agree; that was the item inserted by the senate making an ap-propriation of $100,000 for continuing experi-ments in the manufacture of sugar from sor-gum.

ments in the manufacture of sugar from sorgum.

The conference report was concurred in, and a further conference was asked on the sorghum item. A conference was ordered on the post-office appropriation bill, and Senators Plumb, Allison and Beck were appointed.

The senate then, at 1:40 (instead of adjourning), took a recess till 2:30 to give time for the enrollment of certain bills requiring the signatures of the presiding officers of both houses. After patiently but vainly waiting a quarter of an hour for the bill (rectifying blunders in the legislative appropriation bill) to be sent over from the house, so as to be signed by the presiding officer, the senate, at 2:46, adjourned till Monday.

LAND GRANT FORFEITURES.

LAND GRANT FORFEITURES.

The House Spends the Day Discussing the Bill.

Washington, July 5.—The house went into committee of the whole on the bill for settlement of the claim of the state of Florida on account of expenditures incurred in suppressing Indian hostilities, and for other purposes. Mr. Dougherty, of Florida, spoke briefly apon the merits of the bill, setting out the emergency which had called forth the expenditures and maintaining the justice and equity of the measure.

Messrs. Whitthorne, of Tennessee, and Davidson, of Florida, also advocated the passage of the bill, pointing to a precedent in the case of the payment of a similar claim of the state of Texas, and declaring that there could be no question of liability of the government.

Mr. Kerr, of Towa, dld not believe that the government should pay interest on the money

Mr. Kerr, of Iowa, did not believe that the government should pay interest on the money expended as was proposed by the bill. It had not done so heretofore in such cases and any rule should be general.

Mr. Jackson, of Pennsylvania, said parties weeking equity should come with clean hands. Representatives of the state of Florida had obstructed the passage of the bill to refund the direct tax to other states and deserved no coulty here.

ments were offered as follows: By Mr. Stone, of Missouri, to declare complete the forfeiture of the entiregrant where the read was not completed in time. By Mr. Payson of Illinois, representing a minority of the committee to confine forfeiture to lands opposite portions of the roads not now completed. By Messrs Stockdale, of Mississippi, and Herbert, of Alabama, excepting lands granted to Gulf, Ship Island and the Mobile and Gurard railroad companies and sold to actual settlers by the states for taxes.

Mr. Holman explained the nature of the proposition before the house, coming from the committee, and pointed out the difference in effect between it and the senate bill. He said the senate bill would work the forfeiture of 5,627,436 acres, while the pending bill would work the forfeiture of 54,323,936 acres subject to bona fide sales to settlers. As he was arguing that the railroads had no right to sell tands lying along incompleted portions of their lines, Mr. Payson interrupted him to ask if he did not know that the supreme court had laid down a precisely opposite doctrine.

Mr. Holman declined to be interrupted and continued his explanation of the features of the bill. He held that lands were sold in many cases to speculators. Even though it was going further than justice required, the committee had recommended that to the extent that roads had been completed, sales made to bona fide purchasers should be confirmed. This would leave the declaration of forfeiture solely as a matter between the government and corporations, who themselves had no claim on the formatter between the government and corpora-tions, who themselves had no claim on the for-bearance of congress. He then went on at length to defend the course of the democratic party in the matter of granting lands to rail-road companies.

Mr. Herbert, of Alabama, spoke brieny to his amendment, urging the justice of confirming the titles of bona fide purchasers of lands of the Mobile and Girard grant.

Mr. Clements, of Georgia, gave notice he should vote for the measure which promised the largest restitution to the people of their lands, so that they might secure homes. He didn't believe that the conduct and management of these railreads toward the government.

Mr. Herbert, of Alabama, spoke briefly to lands, so that they might secure homes. He didn't believe that the conduct and management of these railroads toward the government had been such as to demand any consideration or sympathy beyond their strict legal rights. Therefore, the limit of the power of congress to forfeit these lands was the only limit which he should consider. There was no more pressing obligation upon congress than to pass this bill, and he would vote for the largest forfeiture and leave the railroads to secure their rights in the courts, if there were any doubt about the power of congress. This great public domain, acquired and earned by the sacrifices, treasures and statesmanship of our fathers, was the heritage of the people and should be retained for their homes.

Mr. Oates, of Alabama, was in favor of the forfeiture of every acre of land that could be legally forfeited. But, unfortunately, the courts had decided that total forfeiture could not be declared, and that disposed of the report of the gentlemen from Missouri and Ar.

courts had decided that total forfeiture could not be declared, and that disposed of the report of the gentlemen from Missouri and Arkansas (Stone and McRae). As to the position taken by the chairman of the committee (Holman) it was the most utterly illogical ever taken by a lawyer. The fact that many of the grants were impolitic and ought never to have been made had nothing to do with the present proceeding. The question was what could presentative of the whole lation. In the aggre-tate they are representatives only of distinct, parts le do not think the frequency of the exercise of its power upon the subject of private pension bills, cen if it were a legitimate objection thereto, is al-lade out as charged. Out of a large number of each bills, a very small percentage have been re-trined with objections. The frequency bears a very econsiderable proportion to the number of applica-ous.

As to the means of information made use of by the executive as a basis for his objections, the President has certainly the same right to make use of the records, files, reports and opinions of the pension bureau as members of congress. The money of the people in the treasury, the fund out of which pensions are paids, is a fund of such quality that it cannot be guarded too carefully against immature legislation. The president, equally with any member of the legislative bodies, has the right and duty imposed upon him to form and express his opinion with respect to the justice of a pecuniary claim against this fund, being answerable under his oath and conscience only to the constituency of the hation for his action therein. As to the merits of particular bills recited in the commissioner's report, we deem it here unnecessary for us to express an opinion at this time, being willing to do so at such time as question properly arises upon the final passage thereot."

Senate Bill.

Washington, July 5.—Representative Crisp, from the committee on commerce, to-day reported favorably to the house the senate bill intended to perfect the quarantine service of the United States. The bill provides punishment for any dishment for any dishment for any person trespassing upon any grounds belonging to any quarantine reservation, and upon any master, pilot or owners of vessel entering any port of the United States in violation of the law aiming to prevent the introduction of contagious or infectious diseases into the United States. The bill also establishes quarantine stations as follows:

At the mouth of Delaware bay, near Cape Charles; at the entrance of Chesapeake bay; on the Georgia coasts; at Key West; in San Diego harbor: in San Francisco harbor; and at or near Port Townsend, Puget Sound. It appropriates $542,000 for the construction and maintenance of the above named stations.

An appropriation of $15,000 is made for the maintenance of the gulf quarantine station (formerly Ship Island) for the fiscal year 1889. The committee in its report says it cannot too earnestly urge upon congress the necessity of making appule provision for this im-

THE DEMOCRATIC CLUB LEAGUE. Day's Proceedings at Balth Adoption of the Platform-Grand

Mass Meeting at Night. BALTIMORE, July 5 .- [Special.]-The convention of democratic clubs had its second session this morning at the Academy of Music. When the hour for opening arrived, not more han 150 delegates were in their seats, but the lobbies and halls were well filled. William E. Russell, of Massachusetts, temporary chairman, called the convention to order at half past 10 o'clock. He stated he had received numerous telegrams from various sections of the country wishing the convention success in its work. One of the telegrams stated that over a hundred cluos had been organized in Indiana, and that they were going to carry the state for Cleveland and Thurman.

The report of the committee on resolutions was presented by J. T. Gathright, of Kentucky, and was as follows:

We declare our most emphatic approval of the wise, progressive and patriotic administration of President Cleveland and our belief that the general in-terests of the whole country requires that he should be given a second term in the presidency, which his conscientious and fearless discharge of its duties ntitles him to receive.

We warmly commend the nomination of Allen G. Thurman for vice-president, as that of an honored democratic statesman of long experience and high ability, qualified in every way to adorn that office and stand next in succession to the presidency.

We give our hearty indorsement to the sound and courageous message of President Cleveland at the opening of the present congress, and we rejoice at the coming passage by the democratic majority of the house of representatives of a bill for effecting a genuine reform of the oppressive war taxes.

The platform was adopted by acclamation amid a perfect storm of cheers.

The report of the committee on credentials, which agreed simply on the number of clubs sent by each state, was adopted, and Chairman Corfran, of the committee on permanent organization, submitted his report, which named Hom. J. W. Winans, of Wisconsin, for president of the convention.

The plan proposed was for the selection of a president, one vice-president from each state and territory, a secretary and treasurer. The following names were recommended for officers of the association: President, Hon. Chauncey F. Black, of Pennsylvania; secretary, Edward B. Whitney, of New York; treasurer, George H. Force.

Baltimore, Md., July 5.—A meeting was held in the main hall of the academy of music this evening which was largely attended. Governor Jackson presided and Governor Fitzhugh Lee was first specker. Governor Lee tendered his grateful acknowledgement for the applause with which the announcement of his name was received. He paid a hearty tribute to the democracy of Baltimore and expressed his love for that state which was affectionately known as "Maryland My Maryland." He alluded to the proceedings of the convention, and said that members of the democratic clubs had shown by their actions that they were going to lages had assembled to witness to-day's said that members of the democratic clubs had shown by their actions that they were going to do their whole duty towards storming the republican intrenchments and placing the banner of democracy upon the ramparts of victory. He congratulated the young democrats before him for not having to contend with the great question as to the right of a state to withdraw from the union. The decision of that question had been left to the sword and by the sword the question had been decided, and today Virginia joined all other states of the union in a single, sole desire to promote the giory and grandeur and growth of the American republic. [Applause.]

He eulogized the public actions of Grover Cleveland, and, at the mention of the president's name, the large audience broke into loud applause, which was repeated when reference was made to the action of the St. Louis ponvention in making stronger a ticket already taken seats on the grand stand, the building gave way and fell into a crash, burying in its ruins men, women and children. Indescribable excitement and confusion followed. Strong men turned pale at the scene; mothers screamed for their lost children, and whole families were pinioned, as it were, in a solid mass under debris. Those who were so fortunate as to be on the outside rushed to the roscue and in a short time the imprisoned victims were released. Something near fifty people were taken out with broken arms and limbs, bruised bodies and almost every conceivable wound. But it so happened that no one was killed outright.

The name of General Rebert E. Lee, as it fell from the lips of his relative, was received with tumultuous applause. General Lee's saddle, said the governor, was not stained with treason, as charged by John Sherman, for General Lee had fought, as others had fought, for what he thought to be his constitutional priveleges and rights. Referring briefly to the tariff issue, he denounced as untrue the charge that the democratic party was a free trade party, and declared that the Mills bill was the embodiment of the democratic doctrine of protection to many, and not of the enrichment of a few.

As he concluded, the band played "Carry me Back to Old Virginny," as compliment to him. Other speakers were Colonel John R Fellows, of New York, and Representative Beckinridge, of Kentucky. CHICAGO CROWING.

Claims That She Will Control the Iron Manufacturing of the Country.

CHICAGO, July 5.—A local paper says:
Whatever the result of the struggle between iron and steel manufacturers and their men at Pittsburg, it is safe to say that Chicago manufacturers will keep open their mills and run them at their full capedity. The truth of the matter is that Chicago has the bulge on Pittsburg just at the present time, and, totall appearances, it is a bulge that will last. In the matter of steel rail manufacture—and iron manufacture, too, for that matter—Chicago has the adventage of pretty much all, if not every one, of its competitors. Chicago manufacturers are making morey, and lots of it, and far-sighted men profes to believe that inside of inteen years this city will be the center of the steel and fron manufacturing industry. In the scel industry there are three principal factors outside of labor—coke, fron and markets. The latter may be considered the first market of the United States for steel rails in the northwest three for this of the steel rails made are used in the northwest. In other words, Chicago is ahead of Pittsburg, Youngstown and other neighboring points, just exactly the cost of shipping its output of steel rails between Pittsburg and Chicago, Chicago being that much nearer the market. It is now generally understood that at no point can ore and coke be brought together more—readily and with less cost than here. One of the largest firms of the country which was operating a plant at St. Louis, closed a few months ago for the reason that it could not get ore, Iron mountain ores being practically echausted. Taking everything into consideration, livis stated that the Chicago mills are now able to turn out steel rails at least 55 cleaper than they could last year. Consequently, at 832 per ton this year they are making just as much as they were last year at $37. In fact, they are making more, for the reason that they are tuning out more rails. The men are satisfied, nowithis tanding the ten per S7. In fact, they are making more, for the reason that they are turning out more rails. The men are satisfied, not withstanding the ten per cent reduc-tion, because they are making more money on ac-count of increased production.

THE GREAT LOCKOUT.

The Nail Makers are not Involved in the Row. PITTSBURG, July 5.—The present iron lockout presents a curious and important contrast to the great iron strike of 1882. At that time the nailers, as well as iron and steel workers, demanded an advance, and ail nail factories were closed down on the strike. This year the nail manufacturers did not go in with the association of manufacturers of iron, steel and rails in demanding a reduction in wages and presented no scale, signing the scale of the amalgamated association of iron steel workers without a question, and the factories are running as usual.

ning as usual.

Eastern and western rail manufacturers, at Eastern and western rail manufacturers, at a meeting in Pittsburg in the early part of last month, agreed upon a uniform scale of prices, and practically formed a joint pool for the maintenance of these prices. Under this agreement, it is not necessary to amalgamate with the iron and steel men, as while rails can be maintained at $1.90 and $2.20 the present rate of ways can be paid. The amalgamated be maintained at $1.30 and $2.20 the present rate of wages can be paid. The amalgamated association counts on this source for deriving revenue to maintain resistance against the re-duction, and considers that it has entered the present conflit much better prepared to secure victory than in 1882, when it was necessary to fight the reil manufacturers as well.

The Republic iron works, Oliver Bros. & Phillips and Carnegie's Twentieth and Thirty-third-street mills started up today. Chicago and placed in nomination a man who was named Ben Harrison. The democratic party and laboring men who made up its bone and sinew in the north, were against Ben Harrison on all his principles, and especially on the Chinese question.

But his protest proved unavailing and the report of the committee on resolutions was adopted without any dissenting votes.

On the motion of Mr. Schley, of Wisconsin, it was ordered that officers of this organization be a committee to call upon President Cleveland and Mr. Thurman, to extend to them the congratulations of this convention, to inform them of its doings, and to pledge to them its hearty support in the impending campaign.

Warm applause greeted the adoption of this resolution, and then Senator Kenna, of West Virginia, taking the floor, congratulated the assemblage upon the happy result of its deliberations. It was time now, he said, that each member of the convention should resolve himself into a democratic campaign committee and go home and go to work.

Votes of thanks were then accorded to officers of the convention for their ability and courtesy; to the citizens of Baltimore for their kindness and hospitality, and to members of the press for their impartiality; and, then, after three cheers for Chairman Winans, as SEVERE STORMS.

Several Washouts on Iowa Railroads—Several People Killed in New Jersey.

Drs Moines, Iowa, July 5.—Reports from different parts of this state show that last night's storm was very severe. In this wicinity several houses were struck by lightning but no lives were lost. The storm was very severe all along the line of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy road, washouts being so numerous that no trains have reached this city over that road to-day. At Creston, one thousand feet of track is under water and a number of culverts were destroyed.

Mason City, Iowa, July 5.—A very heavy storms went over the north part of the county yesterday. Corn fields were levelled, a number of houses unroofed and small grain bally damaged. Rain and wind were accompanied by the heaviest electric storm known here for years. Many horses and cattle standing near wire fences were killed.

New Brunswick, N. J., July 5.—The Pennsylvania railroad round house at Millstone Junction was blown down in a heavy storm here this afternoon. James Barry, Hugh Garrigan and John White, three ball players, who were taking shelter from the storm, were buried in the ruins and Garrigan had an arm and leg broken; Barry was badly bruised and had a leg broken; Barry was badly bruised and had a leg broken; Barry was badly bruised and had a leg broken, A barn on George Plumly's farm, near Middlebush, was also blown down. Plumley is reported killed. He was buried with two others, under the ruins. Three horses were killed by the fall of a barn. A dwelling and other buildings on the farm were wrecked. Terrible damage is reported everywhere hereabouts from the wind, hail and lightning; also at Middlebush and Millstone.

Asbury Park, N. Y., July 5.—During a terrible storm here this afternoon the new Roman Catholic church was blown down. The edifice was enclosed and ready for plastering. Loss $2,000.

vastating cyclone swept down yesterday upon a number of towns on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, and it is impossible to estimate the damage done. The extent of the territory over which the storm swept was about a hundred miles in length, and nearly a mile in width. To the farming community, the blow is a sayer one. No deaths have as the blow is a severe one. No deaths have as yet been reported, but loss to crops, horses and cattle is enormous.

PHILAPELPHIA, July 5.—A special to the Philadelphia, July 5.—A special to the Press says: Lackawanna valley was visited this afternoon by the most furious storm ever known there. Two men and two horses were killed by lightning in Scranton, and great damage was done throughout the valley. Rain fell in torrents, while the lightning flashes were sharp, vivid and almost incessant. The streets were floaded with water, and in unstreets were flooded with water, and in unstreets were flooded with water, and in unpaved portions deep gullies were were expected by the streets in and Providence faring the worst. At Jermynville and Barbertown hailstones larger than walnuts fell. Fruit trees were stripped of their limbs and leaves, and all growing gardens and crops were totally destroyed.

A MISMANAGED CASE.

Dynamiters.

Washington, July 5.—Congressman Belmont, chairman of the house committee on foreign affairs, which was instructed by a resolution of the house to investigate the case of John Curtin Kent, will submit the report of the committee tomorrow. The committee finds that in June, 1883, Kent, a naturalized citizen of the United States under the name of John Curtin, was jointly charged with conspiring with Thomas Gallagher, Bernard Gallagher, Whitehcad Ansburg and Charles Wilson to murder, by the use of dynamite, persons unknown. Bernard Gallagher and Ansburg were acquitted. Thomas Gallagher, Curtin and Wilson were convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for life. The report makes no recommendation, but presents an exhaustive histosy of the case, which is described as remarkable for the weakness of the evidence against Kent and the mismanagement of his defense. The fact that he was a naturalized citizen of the United States was not stated on the trial. The report expresses the opinion that if he had been properly defended Kent The Report on the Trial of the American citizen of the United States was not stated on the trial. The report expresses the opinion that if he had been properly defended Kent would not have been convicted. Accompanying the report is the correspondence showing the effort of the president and Secretary Bayard to secure a pardon for Thomas Gallagaer, who was a Brooklyn physician, and in whose behalf a number of his Brooklyn friends invoked the aid of the government.

Fire ai Marysville, Cal. MARYSVILLE, Cal., July 5.—A disastrous fire broke out here early this morning, raging in a block in which the most valuable business houses in the city are located. The fire continued to spread for four hours, and the whole block, with the exception of two buildings, was destroyed. The principal losses were sustained by W. L. Ellis & Co., $42,000; Frost & Shaffer, $40,000; C. J. Roedy, $22,000; C. A. Glendon, $10,000. The total loss is about $170,000; insurance (estimated), $90,000.

Expelling the Jesuits. Expelling the Jesuits.

Ottawa, Ont., July 5.—The Journal says it learns on good authority that Bishop Lafleche, of Three Rivers diocese, signed a decree on Tuesday evening ordering the expulsion of Jesuits from that diocese on the ground that they have unduly influenced Catholics to change their wills on their deathbeds in favor of the Jesuits.

Lynchburg, Va., July 5.—An Advance special from Christianburg says a negro stopped at a white woman's house near New River bridge last night and asked for food. After eating he assaulted the woman, choked her nearly to death, accomplished his purpose and fied. The officers pursued and captured him and a mob hanged him to a tree.

PRICE FIVE CENTS

ENGLAND'S DEBTA

Mr. Goschen's Scheme to Reduce It by the Conversion of Bonds.

London, July 5.—In the house of commons this evening Mr. Goschen, chancellor of the exchequer, moved a resolution that the consolidated and reduced three per cents be redeemable at any time after the expiration of a deemable at a deemable a solidated and reduced three per cents be redeemable at any time after the expiration of a year from the date at which the resolution, having been inserted in Gazette is affixed in the royal exchange by payments of not less than half a million pounds of once, according to act to be passed. He said that the balance of consuls unredeemed was £40,000,000, and of the reduced three per cent outstanding £60,000,000. He proposed to give notice that he would redeem both on July 5th. He would propose next session an act prescribing the manner in which the resolution shoule be carried out. Resources then at disposal of the government would doubtless enable him to carry the resolution into effect in a manner not costly nor inconvenient to the state.

Mr. Childers congratulated Mr. Goschen upon being able to make this last step toward the conversion of the national debt. He suggested that, as money was now cheap Mr. Goschen introduce a bill during this session to pay off such holders as were willing to be paid off.

Mr. Goschen, replying to a question, said that parliament might reserve the power to pay off the debt, not in one sum at expiration of time specified, but at such times and in such installments after the expiration of that time, as act might provide. He would consider the suggestion of Mr. Childers regarding an allowance to the bank of England; also his suggestion that the sum due bank, 11,000,000 pounds ought to be reduced. The whole relations between the treasury and the bank needed revision and he intended to go into the matter in autumn. The resolution was carried.

A Perilous Voyage.

A Perilous Voyage.

Boston, July 5.—A balloon which ascended from the common at 6 o'clock last evening descended in the harbor off Point Hirley. The occupants were submerged, and for three miles or more were dragged through the water at a rapid pace by the balloon, which was impelled by a strong gale. They were signaled by the steam yacht Rose M, and the latter, after a stern chase, succeeded in overtaking the balloonists and making fast the drag rope to her capstan. After much trouble the party were taken aboard, and all were safely brought to this city. The journey was a most perilous one, and the escape from death of the excursionists miraculous.

General Sheridan's Condition

General Sheridan's Condition,
DELAWARE BREAKWATER, July 5.—
The following bulletin was furnished the associated press this morning:
Nine a. m.—General Sheridan passed a very comfortable night and this morning is at least as well as before leaving Hampton Roads. His puise and respiration are good. His appetite is improving fast and assimilation apparently excellent. His condition is such as to permit of the resumption of his voyage as soon as indications are that a comparatively smooth run can be made from the capes of Delaware and Sandy Hook.

Kansas Democrats.

Leavenworth, Kansa, July 5.—The democratic convention organized yesterday by the election of Judge John M. Galloway, of Fort Scott, as chairman. Several committees were appointed and an adjournment taken until 8 o'clock. At midnight the convention was still in session. John Martin was placed in nomination for governor by acclamation and aroused considerable applause. Previous to Judge Martin's nomination a long debate over the platform occurred. As passed it is practically the same as that of two years ago, save a plank demanding the submission of a prohibitoryjamendment to a vote of the people, which was climinated.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 5—[Special.]—State prohibition convention adjourned sine die this morning after selecting a national prohibition electoral ticket. W. P. Grace and J. S. Van Meter were chosen electors for state at large. The movement to nominate a state ticket failed.

THE O'DONNELL SUIT.

The Times Gets the Verdict-The Proceedings.

London, July 5.—The trial of suit for libel brought by O'Donnell against the Times was resumed this morning. Attorney General Webster continued his presentation of the case for the defense. In the course of his remarks,

"No man was libelled to a greater extent than Parnell, yet O'Donnell was put forward to meet the Times charges."

Lord Chief Justice Colredge intimated that the plaintiff had presented no case for the Times to answer.

Mr. Ruegg, counsel for O'Donnell, said he thought the case might go to the jury on the note on which O'Donnell's name was men-thought the case might go to the jury on the note on which O'Donnell's name was mentioned.

The lord chief justice remarked: "Very well; you go on and you take the responsibility."

Mr. Ruegg then asked the couri to give him half an hour for the purpose of consulting his client. Mr. Ruegg subsequently announced he had decided to address the jury on two instances in which Mr. O'Donnell was named in the Tines' articles, and that all other charges embodied in the complaint would be abandoned. Upon the conclusion of Mr. Ruegg's address the lord chief justice charged the jury. His charge was strong against O'Donnell. He said that if O'Donnell intended his letter to the Times to vindicate his character, it was difficult to conceive a weaker protest.

Patrick Eagan has sent the following dispatch to Labouchere respecting the Times libel case:

Letters introduced by the Times from me to Carrs, dated October 1881, and letter from Parnell to me are villainous concoctions.

The Times asys:

The verdict of the jury is so clearly in accordance with the principles of justice and the facts before the court that it would be inappropriate to treat it as furnishing a special reason for emulation. The conductors of the Times owe a debt of gratitude to counsel for the defense, especially to Sir R. E. Webster, for the able manner in which the case was presented. We commend Lord Coleridge's observation regarding O'Donnell's demand in its larger aspect to the notice of those interested in the newspaper libel bill.

Russia Will Let Bulgaria Alone. London, July 5.—Official dispatches from St. Petersburg state that M. de Giers, Russian prime minister, has informed the British am-bassador that after December 17th the Bulbassador that after December 17th the Bulgarians may do anything and everything they please, from cutting each other's throats to declaring their country an empire. Russia, M. de Giers declared, will not move a finger to prevent them from following their own inclinations, and will wash her hands of the whole concern. The ambassador is of the opinion that Russia does not intend to provoke war.

CLASPED HANDS AGAIN.

General Longstreet's Name Held in Honor.

The Georgia Press Association Entertained by Mrs. General Longstreet-Incidents of the Occasion. GAINESVILLE, Ga., July 5 .- [Special.]-For four years General Longstreet was the bull og of the confederacy.

In the carnage of battle, in the gloom and disaster of conflicting arms, his towering form was the object around which the hosts of the confederacy rallied. When victory crowned the arms of the men in gray, it was Longstreet who lead the way, and when defeat drove them back it was Longstreet who contested every inch of ground, and proved that while southern men might be defeated, they could never In the piping days of peace, however, when weak men became brave in the absence of the enemy, brave men, who had borne the brunt of the battle, sought a revival of the fraternal relations which should never have been broken. Longstreet, who in war had earned the right d what opinions he pleased in time of peace, fell a victim to that prejudice which is so unreasoning that few men dare to fight it.

And thus it happened that for over twenty years there was a gulf between the hero, who right arm was Lee's strongest support, and the men who had so often followed his lead into the very jaws of death.

When Mrs. Longstreet asked the Georgia press convention to meet her under her own roof, the Longstreet of the past twenty years passed in panoramic review. But it was only momentary, and then the gallant figure which had led so many a hard-wen fight loomed up. It was the Longstreet of 1864, the Longstreet whose name is already recorded in history, and the Longstreet whose name will live in song and story while memory of the confederacy lasts. At the mention of his name by the lips of a woman, that woman his wife, that wife a type of the womanhood of the south which had excelled the record of its sex in devotion to home and people, a mighty cheer went up, and private and commander were as one again. Longstreet was once more in the saddle, while pressing close around him were men as ready to do his bidding as ever gathered to his side in the army of Northern Vir-

Thus the scene presented in the beautiful parlors of Mrs. Longstreet in the Piedmon hotel became historic and one well worthy of painter's brush. The honors of the occasion were dispensed by Mrs. Longstreet, sur-rounded by Miss Lula Longstreet, Mrs. Kendall, Mrs. Ross, Miss Edmondson, Miss Bar-nett, Miss Sanders, Miss Aycock and many other ladies. Captain H. W. Newman, of Canton, who happened to be here on business, was drafted by the association to make the in-troductions, which he did in a happy manner. Advancing toward the distinguished lady, Captain Newman said: Mrs. Longstreet: In behalf of the Georgia Weekly

Press association, we came to thank you for this cor-dial reception, and to pay honor to the wife of one who so gloriously fillustrated southern valor and de-fended the virtue of our mothers and daughters. Mother, the sweetest name that was ever lisped by a tongue. When Douglass, the Scottish chief, to regain the tomb of our blessed Savior from hands of the infidels, he carried the heart of Bruce in a golden casket, and when in the midst of battle and being hotly pressed he threw the casket in the rank action ressed he threw the casket in the ranks of the and said: "Go, brave heart, I will follow die." Your gallant husband was the heart of Bruce to the army of northern Virginia, and when he gave the command they would follow him to victory or to death. We hope that your lives may be long spared as a benediction to your coun-try. May gentle winds and fair gales waft thee to mansions on high to a house not made with hands eternal in the heavens. Mrs. Longstreet, in whose eyes tears had gathered as she listened to the eloquent words of the gallant orator, grasped him firmly by the hand and said fervently:

For each one Mrs. Longstreet had a pleasant word or an encouraging smile. When Mr. Moore, of the Crawfordville Democrat, was introduced, she said: "We are all democrate now." The applause which followed this was equalled by that which came, when to "We were on different sides during the war, but we are all in the union now.'

Before taking leave of Mrs. Longstreet, Colonel Gunn, of the Cuthbert Liberal, read the following resolution, which was unanimously

Resolved, That the members of the Geo Weekly Press association hereby tender their sin-cerest thanks to Mrs. General Longstreet for the hospitable reception given us; and we express our unfeigned regrets at the absence of her distinguished husband, whose name is loved and r all who were the gray and who love the beau

As the convention was about adjourning there was afforded a good opportunity to study "the country editor." An honest and deter-mined set of faces, in which frankness was the leading characteristic, gave assurance that in the hands of these men the press of Georgia was safe. It could be seen at once that each one was a man cf conviction, who would neither bend the knee to power nor fawn to wealth. The clear-cut face of Gunn, of Cuthbert; the classical features of Hanes, of Deca tur; the sparkling eye of Stanton, of Smith ville, alias Cutter; the calmness of Under-wood, of Camilla; the bouyancy of Coleman, of Ellijay; the agility of Roberts, of Sparta, and the philosophy of Irwin, of Conyers, caught general attention. Other editors were noticeable for their youth. Fleming, of Blakely; Neeson, of Warrenton Clements, of Cumming, and others, proved the fact that the coming editors of Georgia were already in the bud. Young, of Greens ro, distinguished himself by several speeches and Herrington, of Swainsboro, won applause by his chaste and brilliant discourse at the opening of the convention. Speer, of Henry ounty, was a perfect counterpart of his cousin Dan, of Atlanta. Douglass Wikle was always the center of a group, and Allen, of the Worth County Local, won instant popularity by presenting to the convention several choice grapes. It was an assemblage such as Georgia might well be proud of, and whose present work promises much in the future for the state.

The entertainment of the convention by Gainesville was something phenomenal. Mayor Smith, Hon. H. W. J. Ham, Captain John Blatts, ex-Senator Butt, and other leading citzens, quit all other business and devoted themselves to attending upon their guests. The hotels and private houses were all thrown open, the carriages of the city always stood ready for service, and everything, like salva-tion, was free. This was especially pleasing to Mr. Stanton, who remarked upon it to his friend, Mr. J. H. Cutter, on severel occasions. Gainesville has a growing appearance, business is prosperous, and everything points toward a population of 20,000 in a few years.

With the sitting of the sun, the Richmond and Danville train pulled out. The last object seen by the departing editors was the form of ex-Senator Butt, calling upon the convention to call back on another occasion.

PEA JAY.

At nine o'clock last night the editors reached Atlanta, and, while waiting for the Chattanooga train, paid a visit in a body to THE Constitution building. They were shown through the various departments, and saw much to impress them. They gathered in the office of the night editor, when Mr. Neeson, on behalf of the editors, expressed their warm appreciation of The Constitution's friendship. With three cheers for the greatest and best newspaper in the state they retired, and were soon on their way to Chattancoga.

Mitchell and Colquitt County Boys Fight.

One Man Mortally and Several Others Seri ously Wounded-Fall of the Band Stand and a Regular Stampeder

ALBANY, Ga., July 5 .- [Special.]-A serious difficulty took place at Jim Hartsfield's mill, in Colquitt county, about twelve miles from Camilla yesterday. A large concourse from Colquitt, Camilla and East Mitchell county gathered to celebrate the fourth with a picnic and barbecue. The Camilla brass band fur-nished the music. Everything passed pleasantly until the barbecue was served at 2 o'clock. An altercation occurred between two Mitchell and Colquitt county boys. The lie was passed and resented. Friends interfered, when one man was hit and knocked down. Instantly all was a scene of confusion. Pistols knives, clubs, boards and every kind of weapon was pressed into service. About thirty shots were exchanged. The seene was heart-rending. Women and children were weeping for fear their loved ones would be killed others were flying in every direction.

A. H. Jones, a prominent stock raiser of Mitchell county, was shot in the left breast three inches below the collar bone by Allison Collier. The wound will likely prove fatal. Collier was shot through the right ear and badly beaten over the head. Jim Jones, of Colquitt county, was shot in the back between the shoulder blades and had his upper lip badly disfigured by a piece of scanling. wounds are considered dangerous. Moree was reported badly cut in several places. A lady, in attempting to escape, was shot through the hair. During the confusion the band stand broke down and the instruments ruined. AND HERE'S TWO MORE

Free Fights at Negro Barbceues Near Augusta-Several Shots Fired.

Augusta, Ga., July 5.—[Special.]—News from two negro Fourth of July barbecus, held out of town, tells of sanguinary encounters at both places. One was held across the river, at Schultz's hill, in South Carolina, and broke Schultz's hill, in South Carolina, and broke up in a general row. The fight was precipitated by a negro woman who was walking in the road and who charged a negro driving a wagon loaded with watermelons with trying to drive over her. The driver protested in vain, and she brought her escort to avenge the indignity. Sticks were used freely, and when the wagon driver was getting the best of the encounter the woman's champion drew a pistol and fired. An innocent bystander was shot in the back, and when the negro saw him fall he ran into the swamp and has not been apprehended. The fight became general, and broken heads and bleeding hides were the order of the festivities. One negro was seriously cut with a razor.

NEGRO GAMBLERS.

They Fall Out Over a Game of Cards and Use Pistols.

Madison, Ga., July 5.—[Special.]—Rumors were affect in this city this morning that a negro had been killed near the city last night. The Constitution correspondent, upon investigation, found that the rumors were founded upon the fact that some of the railroad hands had engaged in a difficulty over a game of cards on last Monday morning and one of heir number is still missing.

Mr. W. C. Crawford, overseer for Judge G.
Stovall, was plowing along in his field on Monday morning, when he heard several pisto shots fired in the woods near by. Immediately after the shots were fired, a negro man bolted out of the woods in the direction of afr. Crawford. He was hailed by this gentleman, to whom he appealed for help, saying that he was about to be killed. He said that he and two other negroes had been playing earls in the was about to be kined. He said that he and two other negroes had been playing cards in the woods, when he won $35. This angered his associates, who said they would kill him, and immediately began firing upon him. He was so badly frightened that he could scarcely so badly frightened that he could scarcely speak. One of the negroes has not been seen since, and it is upon this that the rumors were based. The woods above mentioned have been noted as a resort for gamblers and evil doers generally, as it is just out of reach of our police. Our police are now on the lookout for the three gamblers. The class of negroes at work on our new railroad, the Covington and Macon, are atough class of citizens, and are constantly giving our police trouble. A great many of them gamble off their wages as soon as earned. They go just outside of the city limits to do their greatest deviltry.

Lumpkin County Favors Lester. DAHLONEGA, Ga., July 5,-[Special.]-As Dahlonega, Ga., July 5.—[Special.]—As intimated some time ago, the convention which met here Tuesday for the purpose of solecting delegates to the congressional convention was a very lively one, and sent delegates favorable to Lester, as against Candler. The vote stood 131 for the Lester delegates and 77 for the Candler delegates. A. C. Johnson and J. W. Woodward are the delegates and E. E. Caisson and J. C. Stargel alternates. It is understood that the delegates are for the two-thirds rule and would readily support a dark horse. They go uninstructed. The main objection to Candler appeared to be the fact that he has been in congress six years and has he has been in congress six years and has taken no prominent stand against the internal revenue. No man can please this county who does not work in season and out of season for the entire repeal of the internal revenue laws, and he must do this whether there is hope of a successful issue or not. The Stars and Stripes Run Up on a Pole

Which Was Erected to Fly the Stars and Bars Twenty-Seven Years Ago-Its History.

BLAKELY, July 5 .- [Special.]-Many of the old soldiers, the war veterans, those who did ome of the fighting and bleeding, met here today, and amid the din of drums and boom of cannon, unfurled the stars and stripes from our ninety-foot confederate flag pole, now standing n the United States. Union soldiers stationed here in 1865 started to cut it down, but were warned not to do it and desisted.

Twenty-seven years ago it was raised before the Blakely courthouse. Since then the Uni-ted States soldiers stuck an ax in it for the purpose of felling it., the lightning of heaven has riven the sturdy oaks near it, the storms of more than a quarter of a century have warred upon it, but still it stands, leaning southward. By the same hands, though aged now, that raised the stars and bars in '61, the stars and stripes went up today in our father's house again. The speeches were fine, the din-ner sumptuous, the enthusiasm great. THE DALTON REUNION.

THE M'DUFFIE DELEGATION.

Hon. P. B. Johnson Accounts for His Absence from the District Convention. Thomson, Ga., July 5.—Editors Constitu-ion: I see in your issue of the 4th that it is ntimated that an improper motive was at-ached to the absence of the McDuffie delegates to the congressional convention held in Augusta on July the 2d, and that the absence was in the interest of Mr. Thomas E. Watson was in the interest of all. Information, was in who expected to be a candidate two years from now. This is an injustice to the delegates and to Mr. Watson. I was one of the delegates, and did not know that Mr. Watson would be a candidate, nor was such a thing entrusted to me.

Our county convention unanimously indorsed Hon. George T. Barnes, and instructed the delegates to vote for him, and knowing there was no opposition to him, I did not think it absolutely necessary to attend, and I was so situated that I could not do so, on account of the assembling of the Augusta district conference at this place on the arms due trict conference at this place on the same day.

I cannot see how anyone could so stretch their imagination as to connect our absence with any supposed candidacy of Mr. Watso P. B. Johnson.

COVINGTON AND MACON

Flags and Congratulations From Ben Butler.

A Little History About the Covington and Macon-Gossip About the Railroads-Brief Matters of Interest.

Macon, Ga., July 5.—[Special.]—Never in the history of railroad building has one little line received half so much attention as has the Covington and Macon because all other reads have been built by corporations or companies while this has been carried through from be ginning to end by one man, and a man, who, at the start, only had money enough available to survey the line and grade the first few miles. At first almost nine people out of ten were certain that the project would fall through, but today there are over ninety miles of track laid, the trains are running for seventy-three miles, and the grading has been finished up to the very corporate limits of Athens.

And now that this is the end of this wonderful enterprise, the builder of the road, Colonel E. C. Machen, is being loaded down with compliments on every side. The latest is in the shape of five handsome flags, which the following letter will explain:

Bostos, July 2, 1888.—My Dear Machen:—I am very glad to hear that your railroad enterprise is at last coming to be a working success. I suppose you will have an opining, which will be a sort of public festival, for the road. Allow me to take a little part in it by sending you a few flags for the decoration of the train, and one to be hoisted upon your office on festival occasions. Accept them as a tribute to busin se enterprise and full thinful endeavor. I am, ginning to end by one man, and a man, who,

of the train, and one to be nosted upon your office on festival occasions. Accept them as a tribute to busin ss enterprise and faithful endeavor. I am, very truly, your friend, BENJ. F. BUTLER. The flags are made by the United States Bunting company, of Massachusetts, of which General Butler is president.

General Butter is president.
Just twenty-three years ago, General Butler was in command of the Crows Nest battery on James river, which was one of the most important posts held by the federals at that time.
Colonel Machen was in the confederate iron clad, Richmond, pegging away at him for all he was worth he was worth.

Today, Butler is presenting Machin with flags to decorate the first regular train that is to run over one of the most wonderful roads in the Teh days ago Major Huger, superintendent road. Tell days ago major Huger, superintendent of the road, sent out a circular to all the operators asking them if they belonged to the order of Kailway Telegraj hers, John Bruce, of Chattanoora, Mr. Billingsty, of Oltewah, and Miss Clemmie Roberts, of Appison, replied that they were members. They were ordered to either leave the order or resignand to day every one of them tendered resignations which were accepted. The matter has caused quite a sensation in railway circles. The Sale Confirmed.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 5 .- The sale of Florida Railway and Navigation company, which took place several months ago, was confirmed in the United States court today. The new company will be known as the Florida Central and Peninand company. The directo s of the new company are Wm. Blyard Cutting, H. R. Duval, Fred W. Foote, Elwin N. Dickerson, Adolph Emor, Mayne MacVeagh, J. H. Thomas, D. E. Laffell and John A. Henderson. Tae directors will meet in a few days to elect H. R. Duval, the present receiver, as president of the company. When the organization is periected, improvements will be made.

South Carolina Railroads. COLUMBIA, S. C., July 5 .- [Special.]-The COLUMBIA, S. C., July 5.—[Special.]—The railroad commissioners today issued their monthly report (f the earnings of the railroads in the state for the month of May. As compared with the same period last year, of the twenty-six roads included in the report, all but it ree show a net increase in carnings. The total carnings were $488,536, agains: $418,322 in May of last year, showing a total net in crease of $69,320. The total freight earnings for the month were $232,172 and the passenger earnings $150, 31, against $231,636 and $133,119, respectively Xay, 1887. The roads of the Richmond and Danville system show a net increase in earnings of $6,23 per cent.

A Movement Against Barroom Influence

Piedmont Chautauqua are receiving the attention of the officials, and it can be stated as a certainty that they will be as near perfect as it is possible to make them. There is no doubt about the ability of Atlanta's railroads to handle the crowds, and they will be taken care of in the future. Miss Howard's rendition Monday night at Miss Howard's rendition Monday night at Miss Grant's entertainment, was Waltz Caprice, (instead of Home Sweet Home) one of Miller's sprightly and artistic compositions. Miss Howard is one of Atlanta's most gifted and favorite professionals, and kindly consented to render an impromptu assistance, in the absence of Miss Katie Cary, who was sick. Macon, Ga., July 5.—[Special.]—Every prominent citizen of the community today received an envelope, in which was enclosed the printed platform of the Citizens' Reform association, a postal card on which:

He was the recipient of many honors. Governor and Mrs. For-aker entertained him and his public re-invitation to next year's convention was greeted with a spontaceived an envelope, in which was enclosed the printed platform of the Citizens' Reform association, a postal card on which:

"You are invited to sign your name, etc., and return, signifying that you wish to become a member," and the following letter, which explains itself:

"Macox, Ga., July 4th, 1888.—Dear Sir: We beg to call your attention to the enco-ed platform, and we carnestly ask that you will authorize the curoliment of your name as a member of our association. A postal is enclosed for that purpose. This is not a prohibition movement, as is proved by the list of names hereto signed and list of members already curolled, in which there are many antiprohibitionists. While this is true, we think every good citizen will concede that the time has come when organized barroom influence should no longer control our political affairs and prevent that reformation which is imp-ratively demanded in the administration of our city and county affairs. The next meeting of the association will be held at office s in Masonic hall on Friday, July 6th.

Following is a copy of ideas and intentions which the association hope to carry out:
1st. We invite all etitzens of Macon, and Bibb county, who desire to promote the needed reforms in our county and municipal affairs to unite with this association. The same paper in another place says:
"Mr. Sternberg, from Atlanta, Georgia, is not only a great composer, planist, and highly cultured gentleman, but also royal good company, who entertain a room full without an effort. He gentlement countries count his mysfeal due to the ability and untiring energy of "Mr. Sternberg, from Atlanta, Ga.," whose advent here has in-fused new life to the musical progress of this city. Atlanta is to be congratulated for having been rep-resented by Mr. Sternberg, and his many friends in our county and municipal affairs to unite with this association.

2nd. We do not propose to precipitate any contest in this county under the existing local option law, but we recognize the fact that the numerous barrooms of the city and county exercise an undue influence in public matters. Their organized activity and control in politics are an obstruction in the way of every real reform. We therefore invite all citizens irrespective of their conviction on the subject of prohibition, to act with us in effort to free our community from the undefended evil of barroom domination in politics.

3. We stand for the purity of the ballot secured by a fair and careful registration; for honesty in elections and for efficient enforcement of the law.

4. We believe that the present style by which self-solicited candidates endeavor to pre-empt nominations by public announcement of their candidacy, many months before an election, is undemocratic and should be superseded by better method. The office should seek the man, not the man the office. Hence we believe that candidates for public trusts should be brought out by request of their fellow-citizens made known in public meetings, instead of by their own premature and tireless exertions to forestall the free action of public opinion.

Such a platform as above means that as big a will feel highly gratified at his "sweeping" success. The piano firm of Knabe, in Baltimore, had sent a new magnificent Grand piano for Mr. Sternberg's

No Trick About It. The Philadelphia Press is very much disturbed because the democratic national committee has chosen Hon. William H. Barnum, instead of Hon. William L. Scott, as its chairman, and says that this action of the committee clearly shows that the de-straddling on the tariff question. There is no trick about it. There is no question as to how the democratic party stands on the tariff, and its platform is as plain and explicit as it could possibly be. President Cleveland's message has only one meaning, and this meaning is the interpretation of the democratic tariff idea. The issue has been made clearly and pointedly, and the democracy appeals to the country mocracy is trying to trick the people by

Mr. Barnum, who has been chosen chairman of the committee, would have made different platform had the matter been left to him, but he promptly yielded his opinion to the will of the majority, and like all other good democrats, went to work to fight the Larder for his party, because there had been a division in its ranks. In choosing him as its chairman the national committee has not altered the meaning of the platform in the slightest, for on that platform Mr. Barnum, as a democrat, stands with the democracy. In choosing him the committee simply acknowledged his long and faithful service to the party, and show that it has no disposition to proscribe him simply on account of an honest difference of

The committee acted wisely, and course will be of great service to the party. Had it acted differently and rejected Mr. Barnum on account of his opinion as to party policy it would have said to all who agree with Mr. Barnum that they would have none of them in this campaign. What would have been the result? Connecticut New York and New Jersey would have been made irredeemably republican. The wisdom of the committee has insured all of these states to the democracy, and the democracy of the country owes its thanks to the national committee for what it has done to bring about this glorious result.

The Georgia democracy will please paste this in their hats.

WITH Bob Ingersoll denouncing the Bible and Harrison kissing the women right and left, it is not to be denied that the republicans are having a rattling campaign. A Republican Crank.

Brother Elliot F. Shepard, the proprietor of the New York Mail and Express, appears to be the most ardent campaigner on the republican side. The fact that he is one of the most disgusting cranks the country has seen for a long time is not regarded as important by the republicans. He has a newspaper, he has money, and he has gall, and these possessions are badge, password and

It is needless to discuss the questionable taste which Shepard displays in prefacing the political page of his paper with scriptural quotations, nor is it necessary to refer to his cranky letters from Chicago signed "Alexander." He has recently capped the climax of crankiness by mixing politics and ion in a way that cannot but help th

In Indianapolis recently this politico-re ligious crank attended a religious prayermeeting and took advantage of the occasion to make a stump speech in favor of Harrison. H3 not only did this unseemly thing, but he went further than this and made a vicious attack on President Cleveland. The whole performance, as the Indianapolis Sentinel aptly remarks, was so sacriligious and disgusting that it cannot be properly characterized in words.

THE way the republicans propose to help the laboring people is shown in the lockout of 100,000 steel and iron workingmen.

Two Girls and a Governor. Governor Morehouse, of Missouri, is in state of siege. Unless he interferes Brooks, alias Maxwell, the man who killed his friend Preller and packed his body in a trunk at the South ern hotel in St. Louis, will die on the gallows on the 13th of this month.

Hundreds of petitions, urging clemency, have been sent in, and many good men and women have personally appealed to the governor to commute the prisoner's sentence, but thus far their efforts have been fruitless. To those who believe the prisoner's story that he accidentally killed Preller while performing a surgical operation, the governor replied that in that event Brooks would not have pinned on the dead body the paper bearing the words: "So perish all traitors to a great cause." But Governor Morehouse is now called upon to hear an appeal well calculated to often the sternest heart. The sister of Brooks, a pretty girl of seventeen, has arrived from England. She will tell the governor that her brother is just as good as he can be, and that she knows him to be innocent. If she is asked how she knows it she will, of course, give the simple feminine answer, "Because," and against such an answer, emphasized by a pair of pretty eyes shining through a mist of tears, it will take a very stern man to prevail. But there is another girl in the case. The governor's daughter, his favorite child, has looked into the matter. She has read the evidence. Brooks's statement, and the two dissenting opinions of one of the judges of the supreme it would be a shame to hang him Miss Morehouse is a remarkably bright and kind-hearted young lady, and she will not relax her efforts in the condemned man's behalf while there is a chance of saving him. She will join pretty Miss Brooks, and the two will worry the life out of the old governor until he gives a final answer. Unfortunately for the girls, the court, and she has told her father that

Brooks cannot possibly be guilty of the crime of murder in the first degree, and that last governor of Missouri who yielded to a similar appeal made a mistake. Governor Crittenden pardoned the murderer Stevenson because his little daughter on her deathbed begged him to do so. Stevenson was pardoned, but in less than a month he committed another murder, and was lynched by a mob. If Governor Morehouse thinks of this unlucky precedent he will doubtless feel inclined to let the law take its course.

The governor of a state ought not to be left to decide such a question. Some states have wisely established boards of pardons, and this should be done everywhere. A governor has enough to do without having the grave responsibility of determining whether a fellow being shall live or die. Wherever it has been tried a board of pardons has given satisfaction, and every state should have one.

THE said B. F. Jones, one of the managers of the republican campaign; is shutting out the laborers in his own iron works. In Pennsylvania the said B. F. Jones can afford to cut bis capers.

Not to Be Tampered With. In the large northern cities the electric vires kill somebody every month or so. Down south there are not so many accidents of kind, because we have comparatively few electric wires. A case reported from New Orleans should serve as a warning. In that city, the other day, a man was instantly killed by coming in contact with a wire. He had no occasion to touch it, but on its position as set forth in its platform it was within his reach, and he carelessly put his hand on it and received a fatal

In New York it is suggested that electric wires should be laid underground, and in New Orleans it is proposed to string them on towers. Some safe system should be adopted, and in the meantime everybody, grown people as well children, should be warned to let the wires alone-there is danger and perhaps death in them.

A TREMENDOUS battle-ax has been dug up in Ohio. With this weapon and the red bandanna (with two n's) the democrats will march to victory by way of the short all-

Where the Trouble Is.

In democratic circles in the west, the view is taken that the real rough-and-tumble contest during the present campaign is to take place in the east. The Kansas City Times says that the republicans will probably "gain somewhat on the tariff question in Connecticut," and, as the Times points out, what is probably true of Connecticut must be probably true of New York and New Jersey.

The Kansas City Times, it will be remembered, is as ardent in its appeals in behalf of a tariff for revenue only as Editor Henry Watterson, and its remark about the situa tion in Connecticut is worthy of more than passing attention. There can be no doubt that the tariff is the main issue this year. There is some mention of the bloody shirt in the republican platform, but this will not attract much attention outside of the south. It is an issue of no importance whatever at the north, and it will be sidetracked as soon as the campaign opens in Under these circumstances the situation ecomes decidedly interesting for both parties: indeed, it is especially interesting to the democrats. Before the nominations were made, Brother Watterson, and, if we mistake not, the editorial brother of the Kansas City Times, made some promises in regard to certain western and northwestern states which have heretofore been republican. We hear little of these promises now, and it is perhaps well for the party that we As a fellow-countryman remarked at the Confederate Veterans' barbecue last Wednesday, "a bird in the hand is the noblest work. This remark was made over the hot hind leg of a shoat, but it may be repeated over the suggestion that the democrats are to carry states that have heretofore voted with the republicans. We prefer to depend on New York, Connecticut and New Jersey. These states are naturally democratic, and if the tariff issue threatens to cause defections in these states then there is all the greater necessity of making a robust and vigorous campaign there. These states must be carried by the democrats, or the party will be defeated. We believe they can be carried if the proper effort is made. The campaign must center there or thereabouts. We cannot depend on the Pacific slope nor can we depend on the states promised by Editor Watterson, but we can depend on the states that have heretofore been democratic. Therefore, the sooner the contest is opened in New York, Connecticut and New Jersey and the hotter it is made from now until next November, the more certain will be the prospects of a democratic victory.

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON has sailed for the Sandwich Islands. He is not afraid of cannibals, and, if his portraits do him jus tice, he has no need to be.

In Defense of Governor Alger. A number of republican organs, friendly to Senator Sherman, are disposed to be severe with Governor Alger and are taking side with the Ohio senator in his attack on Michigan's governor for having deprived him, Sherman, of many votes which he expected in the republican convention from the southern delegates. This is a matter which Sherman can les afford to push than any of the other candidates for the republican nomination, for he is in a far worse fix than any of them. He began his campaign of bribery six months ago, and his agents did not hesitate to say what they came south for. They openly paraded up and down the halls during the conventions, and as fast as delegates were elected they clinched them with Sherman gold. Thus it was that after all the states had chosen their delegates Sherman's managers, knowing how much they had expended, estimated their strength at 350 votes. Governor Alger was a candidate and had as much right to be as Senator Sherman, and he saw no reason why he was not as much entitled to the southern vote as Senator Sherman. He knew how Sherman had gotten this vote, and he believed that he would be justified in fighting the devil with fire. He therefore opened his barrel and proceeded to rebuke Sherman's corruption, which he did most effectually. It is for this reason that we say that such comments as the following, from the Pittsburg Dis patch, are unjust to Governor Alger. The Il for some action in rebuttal or denial from his ends. It is specifically asserted that money was ed, and that it was used in such sums that whoever had to draw the cheeks for it could have little doubt of the purpose it was put to. While Mr-Alger's barrel has been made the subject of a good deal of wit, it will be readily recognized by the American people that there can hardly be anything ore wantonly disreputable than the purchase of tes, whether at a convention or election. It is to hoped that he may be able to clear his skirts. Certainly if the allegations are true, the short ca reer of Governor Alger in national politics will have served to make him famous as a discredit to his class and a disgrace to his party. These assertions make it all the more a matter of congratula-tion that the republican party has never yet taken the field with a barrel candidate.

It is not fair to Governor Alger to single him out, when he is not near as much to blame as Sherman. The latter attempted to hoodwink the whole republican party by bribery, and Governor Alger only speculated on those who had already been mus Jones, of Baker county, is pretty sure to get there. In fact, he gets there so often, and with so few breaks in the record, that people have come to look out for his first bale as a positive certainty.

Elsewhere in our columns will be found a special announcing the receipt of the first bale of cotton of the season. It is from Baker county, and, as usual, it is from the plantation of Colonel Primus W. Jones. The donation of the bale to the Piedmont

Chautauqua was a happy thought. It was a great developer's graceful tribute to other developers who are working in another

MARY MAGDALENE SCHREINER was the wife of Mathias Schreiner, of Chicago, and becomng disgusted at his chronic drunkenness and oad treatment, poured keresene oil over himwhile he was drunk and applied a match. The poor fellow was soon burned to death. The wife surrendered herself to the police and plead guilty to the charge of willful murder. She is but twenty years of age and has a sixmonths-old babe, and says that she could no longer stand to bear the burden of life with such a husband, and when he came home on the fatal night dead drunk, she could not re sist an uncontrolable desire to rid herself of him. Her only anxiety now seems to be con cerning her babe.

GOVERNOR JUDAS B. FORAKER has devoted lmost all of his time since his return home from Chicago to "explaining" his position in the convention, but the more he talks the more he stamps himself a traitor. In a speech at Springfield, Ohio, he attempted to vindicate himself by reading the telegram which Sher man sent him from Washington after he found that Foraker had betraved him: "Will you accept the nomination as his (Blaine's) vice? He says that he replied to it by stating, "If I hould be nominated, it will be declined unless you request me to accept." A blind man could have seen the sarcasm in Sherman's telperam, but Foraker took it all in earnest. It is about time for Foraker to go to bed.

IN A RECENT SPEECH at Columbus, Governor Judas B. Foraker is quoted as having said: "I would rather have come home a corpse than to have come back with any honor that could be said to have been gained at Sherman's prejudice." It is sad, but Governor Judas won't DR. McGLYNN, IN a recent speech in New York, said: "Suppose that five, ten, fifteen or twenty thousand tenants should, on a given day, say to the landlords: 'We will pay you no more ground rent, but only a fair house hire for your house.' Don't you think it would be good while before the landlords could evict them all? First, there must be a notice, and then a trial in a district court, before the ten ant can be turned out. The district courts are limited in number. I think there are only about eight of them. IN CHARGING A JURY in Philadelphia th other day, Judge Biddle said in substance: "The history of public morality in regard to otteries is quite curious, I have a lottery ticket issued as far back as 1761, to aid in ouilding a church at Oxford. That church was afterwards presided over by a brother of President Buchanan. At that day lotteries were considered legitimate, and were almost as frequent as anothecary shops are to-day. But perience taught us they were demoralizing, and stringent laws had to be passed agains anything in the semblance of a lottery. At the present day lotteries are held only by two classes of people—very religious people and very bad people—and, strange to say, the most difficult thing is to eradicate them among the good people."

THE PHILADELPHIA NEWS says that the Philadelphia mint cannot keep up with the demand that is being made on it from the outh for pennies, and that the increase in the se of the penny in the south has, of late, been tremendous. The action of the Georgia railcoad commission in requiring exact change to e given by the railroads to persons buying ickets has no doubt much to do with the crease in the use of pennics in this state. They are used now in merchandise in this and other states, where a few years ago they could hardly be passed. The Authors' Reading Tonight We see, with great pleasure, the notices which state that tonight the Young Men's library will give an authors' reading at the opera house. While the object of this reading is to obtain assistance for a worthy cause, that of books, we see something more in an entertainment of this sort. It aids very materially in acquainting our reading public with the charms of the literary works of Georgia men and women. It is as common as it is natural that we should overlook our immediate literary surroundings in adjusting the mental lense for the leaders of thought, the giants in litera-ture. We look abroad for talent; we have it here at home. The happiest medium through which to know an author is through himself; personal acquaintance alone gives us an insight into his works; but above all things the best means of studying the authors productions is to hear that author interpret them. He breaths life into the characters, gives them form and substance, and enables a listener at one reading to better understand him than interpreting for oneself could even bring about.

Tonight we have an opportunity rarely had, of hearing together the best of our Georgia of hearing together the authors. It is an event in literary circles, to see grouped on the stage Richard Malcomb on the nestor among them "Rill Arm" Hamilton," Chas. W. Hubner, Orelia Betsy Key Bell and others of a similar type ranking with the best. We predict a brilliant success for the library in its undertaking, a most enjoyable evening for those who are present and general desire for a repetition of readings of this character.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. A Queen Without Legs.

Editors Constitution: How did this saying originate: "The queen of Spain has no legs?" M. A. The story of the origin of this proverb is thus give in Hume's Essays: When the German princess, Mary Anne, who became the wife of Philip IV. of Spain, was on her way to Madrid she passed through a town, then in the Spanish dominions, famous for its manufacture of gloves and stockings, whose citi-zens thought they could not better show their joy in welcoming their new queen than by presenting her with a sample of those commodities for which the town was remarkable. The major-domo who con ducted the princess received the gloves gracious enough, but indignantly rejected the stockings and severely reprimanded the deputation for their inde-cency, exclaiming, "Know that the queen of Spain has no legs." The young queen, hearing this terri-ble announcement and being unacquainted with the etiquette and prejudices of the Spanish court, burst into tears and begged to be taken back to Gernany, as she could never endure such an operation and she was only calmed with great difficulty. The recital of this adventure gave great amusement to the royal bridegroom and the saying has now be come proverbial.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer. A catastrophe such as few men have the stoicism to bear and few survive, has come like a thunderclap upon Charles Cullman of 52 Browne street. I'm not through

The gas is burning."
"My God, then I'm blind!" cried Cullman, and, sinking back in his chair, from which he had arisen in his excitement, he buried his face in his hands and mouned and wept like a child.

"Turn out the gas! What's the Matter with you!

Dr. Schwartmeyer, his regular physician, was hastily sent for, and only arrived to confirm the worst fears. Cullman was indeed blind.

Without a premonitory sign, without a warning, he blow had come, and as he sat there bemcaning his sad fate, eyes grew dim. Friends took him by the hand and trembled with emotion as they tried to speak words of hope and comfort. The stricken nan only moaned, "My wife! My little ones!" A diagnosis followed, and it was discovered that ullman had for some time been a sufferer fre right's disease of the kidneys. The exudation of the albumen from these organs caused uramiblood poisoning, which gradually pervaded the whole system of the sufferer. For the Murder of His Baby Sister in Kentucky. The Little Wretch Completely Hardened-What Will be Done With Him?

His Coming Trial.

JACKSON, Ky., July 5 .- The trial of Lawville Combs, the eleven-year-old boy who killed his sister, aged six years, is expected to take place here in the circuit court tomorrow.

This murder, committed March 8th of the present year, and of which scarcely any mention has been made in the newspapers, was the whole annals of Kentucky. The parents of the boy had gone away from home for a brief period, leaving Lawville and his sister in

At first he declared that she had gone to a neighbor's house, about a mile distant, on an errand. But the mother, discovering blood strewn about on the floor, became more anxious than ever to ascertain the whereabouts of her child. The boy next tried to cover up his horrible crime by stating that he had killed a chicken during the absence of his parents, and the dripping of the fowl's he had killed a chicken during the absence of his parents, and the dripping of the fowl's blood had produced the stains on the floor. This the parents would not believe, and after being more thoroughly questioned the boy at length admitted that he had murdered his sister with the handle of an old skillet, striking her in the back of the head.

He then built a big fire in the fireplace and endeavored to burn her body, but cremation being a slow process, and fearing discovery, ho took the remainder of the body out of the embers, dragged it to a creek, throwing it into the water.

Not yet satisfied with the disposition of the remains, he afterward took them out of the remains, he afterward took them out of the water and buried them in a sand bank. On being exhumed the corpse was found to be terribly burned, and was a frightful looking object. The boy gave as a reason for killing his sister that a man who was a bearder at their house had offered him a reject of the corps. ter that a man who was a bearder at their house had offered him a pair of shoes and also a pair of suspenders to kill his sister, and he had accepted the offer with the expectation of receiving the goods according to agreement. The anxiety of the bearder for the destruction of the girl arose from the fact that the neighbors had charged him with being criminally intimate with the child, and had threatened on several accasions to resort ing criminally intimate with the child, and had threatened on several occasions to resort to lynch law. There seemed to have been some ground for suspicion, as immediately after the murder and the boy's confession the boarder fled for parts unknown, and has not been seen or heard of in that vicinity since. The boy is brazen and hardened, taking the charges against him with the utmost coolness and indifference, not betraying even the slightest fear of emotion. Apparently he is quite destitute or any feelings of sympathy or remorse and swears, drinks and chews tobacco in the most disgusting manner. Nevertheless he most disjusting manner. Nevertheless he seems at times to suffer considerably in mind, and complains that his dead sister visits him by night and refuses to let him sleep. He is not repentant, however, and regards his awful crime as a matter of but trifling importance.

JUDGE CALHOUN'S DECISION.

The Third Drunk Law Declared to be Null and Void.

Ordinary Calhoun's office was filled with lawyers and others yesterday morning who were interested in the habeas corpus case which was to test the constitutionality of the city ordinance making it obligatory upon the recorder to send to the stockade any person city ordinance making it obligatory upon the recorder to send to the stockade any person convicted of drunkenness three times. A great deal of interest was taken in the case.

With the facts of the case the readers of The Constitution are familiar. A man named Webb was convicted three times of drunkenness, jand the recorder sentenced him to tenday's work on the streets. Mr. Frank Haralson sned out a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Calhoun. The writ was addressed to Chief of Police Connolly, who appeared in court with the prisoner. Colonel George S. Thomas was associated with Mr. Haralson. The respondent was the city of Atlanta and Judge Pendleton fought the writ.

The hearing began about a week ago and was continued till yesterday.

The opening argument in favor of the writ was made by Mr. Fyralson, who spoke against the constitutional of the law. He held it to be opposed to me charter of the city and consequently of no effect. He maintained that the charter of the city of Atlanta gave the recorder the option of fining or imprisoning a criminal. He asserted that the law was unjust, cruel and null and void. He insisted that the city council had exceeded its authority and assumed unnatural powers when it enacted this ordinance divesting the recorder of any discretion.

Celonel Thomas made a new point. He con-acted this ordinance divesting the recorder of any discretion.

Celonel Thomas made a new point. He contended that the ordinance in question said in plain language and distinct terms that the recorder shall imprison offenders of this class, and it does not say one word about making them work on the streets. He argued the point at some length, and the force of his reasoning seemed to strike the ordinary favorably.

reasoning seemed to strike the ordinary favorbly.

Judge Pendleton followed in an exhaustive argument for the other side—the constitutionality of the "three drunks law." He quoted a good deal of law to establish his proposition.
He held that section 5 of the city's charter gave the general council the right to fine, imprison or put on the public works criminals.
If the recorder had sentenced Webb to ten days' imprisonment it would have amounted to the same thing as the sentence he imposed.
In that case Webb would have been put to work in the streets. Judge Pendleton contended that the law in question had been enacted in due form and possessed as much force as any other statute in the books.

In rendering his decision Ordinary Calhoun said: "I have given this matter careful consideration, and will now deliver my opinion, and hereafter write the paper for the release of the prisoner. It is somewhat questionable if the recorder had the right to sentence the prisoner under the city charter, but he certainly had not the right to sentence a prisoner to work on the streets under the new ordinance which distinctly states that for a third drunk the defendant must be imprisoned. Although I am not decided on that point now, yet I will add that in my opinion the third drunk law is a very harsh one, and one that probably would not stand if tested by a court of justice. I will order the prisoner discharged."

Chief Connolly at once released Webb, who went off a happy man.

It is said that another phase of the question will be tested to morrow. Sidney Freeman, a will be tested to morrow. Sidney Freeman, a colored man has been convicted for the third time, and has been sentenced to serve ten days in the station house. The question now to be decided is whether the recorder has the authority to investigate. authority to imprison a man for his third drunk, without giving him the privilege of paying a fine. THE SENATORIAL QUESTION.

Judge Hammond Has a Few Words to Say

About His Opponent.

"The attack made by Mr. Rice upon my record is in effect an attack upon my sincerity in my position before the public on the question of a state prohibitory law," said Judge W. R. Hammond yesterday afternoon to a representative of The Constitution.

"Whether or not," the judge continued, "I am sincere in the position I now take on that question, as set forth in the interviews published in the Journal and The Constitution, I leave to the public. They will have to judge between me and Mr. Rice on that question, and I am perfectly willing for the people amongst whom I have lived for twenty years to judge me. If I am sincere, and they believe my position is a correct one, I expect their support. If they believe I am not sincere, and that Mr. Rice is perfectly so (which point I am also willing to leave to the candid judgment of a discriminating public, then I could not and do not ask their support."

"There seems, judge, some uncertainty about the exact meaning of your words."

"There seems, judge, some uncertainty about the exact meaning of your words."

"Do I mean what I say when I announce myself in favor of a state prohibitory law against barrooms, and when I say I am not in favor of going any farther than that with a general law? Am I to be trusted by the public on that declaration?"

"What about the charge of insincerity?"

"Mr. Rice argues that I am not, because in the convention I declared in favor of a state prohibitory law. After mature deliberation I have formulated and given expression to my opinion as to the kind of a state prohibitory law I favor, and the extent to which it should go. On that declaration I stand."

"What about the charge of inconsistency?"

"I could defend myself against the charge

"What about the charge of inconsistency?"
"I could defend myself against the charge of inconsistency, but waive that question because the public is not interested in it. What I do claim is, that I now have settled convictions as to a definite policy. Whether I am sincere in making this statement I leave to those who know me.

"By the way, on the question of sincerity, I would like to propound two questions to Mr.
Rice:

Rice:
"1. Has he not, for some time past, been openly announcing himself as a candidate and attacking me on the ground that I was for a general state prohibition law?

"2. If so, was he perfectly sincere in stating in the interview of July 4th that he was sorry the campaign had begun so early, and that he would not have started it so soon if it had been left to him?
"I think the public would appreciate a sincere answer to these questions.

An Open Letter to Mr. Frank P. Rice. ATLANTA, July 5, 1888.—Dear Sir: An anonymous writer in this morning's Constitution, who is presumably a friend of yours, draws the alleged "deadly parallel column" on Judge W. R. Hammond. It seems that you and your friends are concerned upon the question of his consistency. Now, consistency, Mr. Rice, is a very admirable virtue. So are many other things. Sincerity, for instance, is a virtue so admirable that no public

1. How did you vote on the prohibition election in 1885?

2. When you wanted to go to the senate in 1886 you were supported by prohibitionists. Did you or did you not, in your exuberant and ephemeral gratitude, voluntarily assure the delegates who supported you that, if elected to the senate, you would advocate the passage of a law which would forever sweep liquor from the limits of the state.

3. During your race for the senate in 1886, the anti-rohibitionists fought you very hard. Indeed they held a meeting at the opera house and made speeches against you. They said hard things about you. They publicly charged that the very night before you came out as the prohibition candidate you had sought the favor, of the other side, and while delicately coquetting with the dry men, were swearing undying loyalty to the wets. The dry men then refused to believe you guilty of such perfidy. Will you at this late day tell the public whether those charges were true or false?

4. You were put in council on a fusion ticket as a representative charged to the prohibitionists. Have you been faithful to that constituency in your votes, or have you acted with the other side? Have you voted to license barrooms in church and residence neighborhoods?

5. How did you vote in the prohibition election of 6. Have you ever changed front on this question, and, if so, have the flagrant and notorious changes

(not to speak of minor dodging) been more or less than four in number?

7. You say now that you are in favor of the local option plan and opposed to state prohibition. Do you mean by that that you will vote for prohibition in a local option election? If you do not mean so, what do you mean? Are you for or against prohibition at all?

These questions are not propounded for the pur-the tayout and against proposed for the purpose of bringing in the wet and dry issue. That issue is already injected by yourself and friends and perhaps could not possibly be left out. But the question of consistency and sincerity is up. Judge Hammond is attacked upon it, and, as a friend of his, the writer demands categorical answers to the foregoing interrogatories in order that the public may judge betwixt you twain.

Delegates Elected to the Congressional Con-

Delegates Elected to the Congressional Convention.

The meeting in the county courthouse yesterday morning was slimly attended and very little interest was taken in it.

Mr. W. A. Osborne, secretary of the executive committee, called the meeting to order.

Colonel B. F. Abbott was made permanent chairmen and Mr. Henry R. Harris was requested to act as secretary.

Messrs, Frank Arnold, J. H. Ketner, M. C. Kiser, R. L. Barry and Captain Harwell, were appointed a committee to agree upon the names of persons for delegates to the congressional convention, which will meet in Atlanta.

After a short consultation the committee reported the following names: Henry Hillyer, Howell Erwin, B. F. Abbott, Henry R. Harris, Jr., Hooper Alexander, M. F. Amorous, J. A. Anderson, J. J. Spalding, G. T. Dodd, J. J. Falvey, W. P. Pattillo.

The meeting thereupon elected these persons as delegates to represent Fulton county.

The following were adopted without debate, and the meeting adjourned:
Resolved, That the democracy of Fulton county cordially indorse and approves the course of Hon. John D. Stewart, our present representative in congress, and recommend his re-election for another term.

rm. Resolved, That the members of the Fulton county delegation are instructed to east their votes in the district nominating convention in favor of his nomination.

A STRANGE DEATH.

A Georgia Lady Dies in New York City While in a Museum.

While in a Museum.

The New York Times gives the subjoined account of the death in that city of a distinguished Georgia woman:

"Mrs. Eliza Stokes, of Madison, Ga., the aged widow of Judge William B. Stokes, of the Georgia supreme court, met a violent death in the Eden Musee, West Twenty-third street, yesterday afternoon. She and her granddaughter, Miss M. McHenry, of Montgomery, Ala., visited the popular place of amusement about 20-clock. Mrs. Stokes, who was nearly 90 years old, walked with the support of a cane in her right hand and with her left grasped the right arm of Miss McHenry. Thus they made a tour of inspection around the main floor and started down stairs to the Crypt, or Chamber of Horrors. On the third step Mrs. Stokes lost her balance and was precipitated head downhamber of Horrors. On the third step Mrs, Stokes st her balance and was precipitated head down-

The fall was so sudden that her weight carried Miss McHenry off her feet and she fell forward also. The women landed together on the stone landing, but while Mrs. Stokes struck her head, her companion, being younger and more active was able to break the force of her fall and esactive was able to break the force of her fall and escaped with nothing more serious than a shock and some bruises. She got up as quickly as possible and turned to assist her grandmother, who was lying quite still with a bleeding wound on the head. Help arrived quickly and a surgeon wassummoned, but Mrs. Stokes expired in a few minutes without regaining consciousness. The body was quietly removed to a private room and every effort made to keep the tragic event from the public. Under the circumstances this was impossible, but at the same time excitement among those in the Musee was underlied to the management displayed tact and delicacy in the emergency.

time excitement among those in the Musee was suppressed, and the management displayed tact and delicacy in the emergency.

Miss McHenry, almost overwhelmed by the inclancholy event, was kindly cared for by some sympathetic ladies present, and in due time recovered sufficiently to be taken to her boarding house at 128 Fifth avenue. The body of Mrs. Stokes was subsequently removed there by permission of Coroner Edman. A post mortem examination will be made today to determine the cause of death, as it is not known whether or not the skull is fractured. Miss MeHenry, in explaining the accident, asid she could only account for it on the theory that her grandmether's cane slipped as she was about to put one foot forward. The old lady was in excellent health, considering her age, and it is the opinion of Miss MeHenry that the fall produced a fracture of the skull.

Mrs. Stokes was a native of Roanoke county, Va., and belonged to one of the oldest and most prominent families in that state. Her husband was a planter before the war and well known in the south. Since his death some years ago Mrs. Stokes had traveled much. Sled and her granddaughter came here several weeks ago and stopped at the New York hotel for a while. Mrs. Stokes was the mother of Mrs. Jane S. Weir, of Montgomery, Ala; The body will be taken to Madison Ga., for burial.

—Captain Hall Elected.

The Gate City Guard at this morning with a new lease of life.

The election of Captain Clifford Anderson's successor took place last night. The polls opened at 8 o'clock and closed at 10.

The result was declared shortly after 10 o'clock. Lyman Hall was unanimously elected captain, and the announcement was hailed with vociferous applause. He was notified by a committee of his election, and he accepted the position, thanking the company for the honor it had conferred upon him, and promising to do all in his power to advance the company's interests.

In chosing Captain Hall the Gate City Guard has done a wise thing.

Since it was known that Captain Hall would be elected there have been nearly a dozen accessions to the membership of the company, and nearly as many more names have been sent in. and nearly as many motors are the sent in.

The new commandant is in every way qualified to make a good officer. He is thoroughly equipped by his military training at West Point. As a drill master he knows few superiors, and as a disciplinarian he stands very high. He will strive to place the company on a high plane.

riors, and as a disciplinarian he stands very high. He will strive to place the company on a high plane.

"Our company," remarked a member last night, "is in a better condition now than it has ever been. The chances are that we will soon have all the members we can take. Our new captain is as good an officer as there is in the state. I don't believe he has a superior anywhere. He enters into the work with great carnestness. It will be his effort to push forward and upward the company until it will be without a peer. This he can accomplish, because every member will second his efforts. I have talked with a dozen prominent members and they are of one mind; they are confident of Captain Hall's ability to bring the company up to a high notch."

SHE POURED OUT THE BEER. Sensational Scene in an Alabama Street

One of the "sample rooms," which line the northern side of Alabama street, was the scene yesterday of an amusing incident. Scated at a table was a well known New York drummer, a prominent lawyer and a prosperous shoe merchant. These gentlemen were engaged in a pleasant conversation when were engaged in a pleasant conversation when in walked one of the female soldiers of the Salvation Army. She was attired in the regu-lation uniform of blue and carried under her arm a bundle of the "Battle Cry." As she walked along she distributed copies of this Seeing what she evidently regarded as a trio of promising siners at the table, she walked over to where the three gentlemen were drinking their beer. She tapped the New York drummer on the shoulder. He looked up in astonishment. astonishment.

"Take this paper," she said, thrusting a sheet into his unwilling hand.
"Thanks," he replied.
"Now," said he, "won't you have a glass of

The astonished bartender drew a glass of paming beer and handed it to the woman in luc. She took it, and the drummer placed a nickel on the counter. The soldier held up the amber liquid'a moment and looked at it. The beer was certainly tempting. What her intent was could not be divined. In a moment she settled the question. She walked to the front door and dashed the contents of the glass into the street. Ther she began to preach a temperance sermon.
But the drummer was mad, and would not hear her; and the others were mad, too.
She left the place, as the New York drummer said: "Give us three more more beers."

THE BUTCHERS.

They Declare That the Cash System Works

Last night there was. a large and earnest meeting of the butchers of Atlanta. The meeting was held in the hall at the corner of Alabama and Whitehall.

President Crawford called the body to order and explained that the meeting had been called so that the members cond give their experience as to the working of the cash system.

At least a dozen of the leading butchers of the city stated that they had found the rule to work to a charm; that the innovation had proved a much greater success than they had expected. It was resolved to carry out the law to the circumstances.

etter and to allow no exceptions un

[]One of the butchers said: "I had some misgivings, when this thing was first proposed, of its feasibility. Those doubts have been dissipated. It has proved an unqualified success. None of my customers have taken umbrage at the strict rules, and I have had little or no trouble. My sales have not fallen off in the slightest, and my cash receipts have increased considerably. The thing is a perfect success.'

DIED IN RICHMOND.

The Wife of General J. B. Inboden Dies Afte a Short Sickness. Judge Strong received a telegram yesterday afternoon stating that Mrs. Inboden died yes-terday in Richmond, Vn. She had been ill a short while, and her death was not unexpected.

The deceased was a lady well known in Atlanta. Mrs. Strong, Mrs. Dr. J. P. Avery and Mrs. E. G. Moore are her sisters. She was the wife of the distinguished General J. B. Inboden. A lady of fine intellect, of amiable disposition, a consistent Christian—she will be missed. Her death casts a gloom over many families in this city.

Exchange.

NEW YORK. July 5.—Dullness in the stock market today was second only to that of Tuesday, while the insignificance of transactions was, if anything, even greater than on that cay. There was a firm tone and some show of animation during the first hour, but succeeding transactions were absolutely barren of any movement of importance. After a partial reaction the attendance at the board was even smaller, and those present, in the absence of busines, endeavored to while away the time in skylarking. In the absence of stocks seeking a market, however, the list developed a firm to strong tone, though, with the exception of Manhattan, which was marked up 2½ per cent on very light trading, movements in no case exceeded 1 per cent throughout the entire day. Rock Island, St. Paul, Northwestern and Lacksawanna were the most prominent for the advances made, but none of them suc-Exchange. Northwestern and Lackawanna were the most pointinent for the advances made, but none of them succeeded in seeing a final gain of more than ½ per cent. The close was very dull, though firm to strong, at about the best prices reached. The business done amounted to onty 52,000 shares, which was an increase of about 17,000 shares over that of Tuesday, and in no stock did the sales reach as much as 3,000 shares. NEW YORK, July 5-Hubbard, Price & Co., in their circular today, say: Increased animation and another upward turn on values have characterized the market for contracts today. It opened at about Tuesday's closing prices. Shortly after the first call large buying orders came in, especially for July and August, and as they began to gevelop the demand was incleased by some free covering, raising the old crop (@) points almost without check. This seemed to bring matters up to the waiting limits of some operators, and drew out heavy offerings, and under which there was a shrinkage of six points, which wined out the entire advance. Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, July 5— The better feeling which cropped out just a little in wheat on Tuesday came out boldly today. The situation was such as to encourage those who had begun to buy for a reaction, and influenced others who were hesitating. The best bull-arguments came from the seaboard and the other side. The amount on passage decreased 1,200,000 bushels. Expert clearances at New York 1,200,000 bushels. Expert clearances at New York alone were 155,000 bushels, and at three At antic ports 170,000 bushels. Frimary receipts were 294,000 bushels. At New York exporters were among early bupers. Cables reported unfavorable weather in England and France, and some disappointment in the yield where threshing was in progress. At all points short sellers were reported very cautious. At this poing July was scarce and at a premium. The opening sales were 1/2 higher for August, 1/2 higher September and %c higher for December. August sold from 80%c up to 81%c, back to 81%c, on some local realizing, then up to 81%c. This was followed by another slight dip to 51%c. This was followed by another slight dip to 51%c. This was followed by another slight dip to 51%c. This was followed by another slight dip to 51%c. And then came a bulge at 12:30 p. m. taking the price to 82c for a moment with a fraction or two loss later. The closing prices were: July 82%c and August 82%c—outside for the day, and jeft August 26 over the closing on Tuesday.

Corn was second only to wheat in the advance to day, one reason for higher prices being an out inspection of 311.000 bushels. July was kept within 1%c6%c of August. There was liberal selling by a few brokers, with general buying on a slow advance. The short interest helped the advance.

Oats scored an advance of %c6%c and left off on top. One of the bull factors was the receipt of reports from a variety of sources by scomes of members that the storm of last night beat down heavy oats over an area in western Illinois and Jowa not less than 20% 100 miles demanded the groot greatly.

that the storm of last night beat down heavy oats over an area in western Illinois and Iowa not less than 200 to 400 miles, damaging the crop greatly. The provision trade was moderate in volume and mostly of a scalping nature. The arrival of hogs were light and prices 5@10c higher. The offering of pork by large packers were quite free, but all was absorbed and prices advanced 7%@10c and closed at outside figures.

Lard was purchased with with a moderate degree of freedom by parties who seld it Tuesday and prices advanced 10c from last sales Tuesday. Short ribs were quiet, but like lard appreciated

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK

An Interesting Gathering in the Second Baptist Church.

Second Quarterly Meeting of the Fulton County Sunday School Association— Its Progress and Work.

Many gentlemen who are prominent in Sun-day school work were in the Second Baptist church yesterday morning, when the convention was called to order by President Courtney.

It was the second quarterly meeting of the Fulton County Sunday School association. These gatherings are always full of interest, and yesterday's meeting was no exception to

A good old gospel hymn was sung with spirit, and Mr. Courtney's rich and powerful voice added much to the volume of tone. The Rev. Dr. Ellington made the opening prayer, which was peculiarly fervent.

rieg song of hope and faith, was rendered by the whole congregation. It went with a vim which was very effective.

The 55th chapter of Isaiah was read by the president, after which business was in order.

A report of the proceedings of the last meet ing was read by Mr. J. C. Kimball, the zealous secretary.

"We will now hear the reports of the vice-presidents," said the president.

There were several ready responses.

Mr. Thomas Peacock, of the second district, made some thoughtful remarks regarding Sunday-school work in its manifold phases. He said the work was dear to his heart and that if he was blessed with robust health he would do some good work for the cause. Being in poor health, his opportunities were limited.

Imited.

Mr. Thomas Moore took a very hopeful view of the Sunday school's future. He saw evidences of a growing and a widening field which would produce rich harvest. He said he had not been very active in visiting the schools since the last meeting, but such as he had since the last meeting, but such as he had called upon were prospering.

Mr. Peacock had a few more words to say.

He spoke of a new school, with eighty-four scholars, which had been organized recently in his district. The school has not yet been named, and it possesses a very small library, the extent of which is a hyan book and three testaments. He had visited New Hope, Boot Rock and Mount Olive, and could give cheering reports from all of them. The latter was doing particularly well, with Mr. Norton as superintendent.

"That is all very cheering," said the presi-

"That is all very cheering," said the president, "and it does our heart good to hear it."

"Yes," exclaimed Mr. Peacock, "you don't know me, Brother Courtney; you don't know me like some of the other brothers do. The best thing God Almighty ever did for me was to strike me with lightning three years ago. That woke me up, and I went to work. And I am willing to wear myself out in my Master's cause." Mr. Peacock's remarks were touching.

I am willing to wear myself out in my Master's cause." Mr. Peacock's remarks were touching.

The next speaker was Mr. William L. Bohler, of Peachtree Sunday school. He said that his settlement was not more than a mile and a half from Mount Vernon Sunday school. The 'school had been opened in an old log house. Thirteen or fourteen seats were made by the members, and on the first Sunday in May the school was organized with thirty-five scholars, which number had been increased to forty-five. He said there were numbers of children, young men and young women who belonged to his school who had never before attended a Sunday-school. He was afraid thatsome of the Monnt Vernon people did not like the establishment of Peachtree school.

It was reported by Rev. C. C. Davis, of the Bishop Hendricks misson, on Marietta street, that he had recently organized a church out on Marietta street with forty-eight members and new it had nimety-eight members. He had offered a prize to forty-five children for those who would bring in the most scholars. Last Sunday the school had one hundred and forty-nine scholars. He said there was two thousand children in that end of the city who were couside the Sunday-school. Mr. Davis gave some very interesting facts.

Short talks were made by Captain Moore, Mr. Lewis P. Peacock, Mrs. Plaster, the Rev. A. R. Ellington, Mr. John M. Green, Mr. A. C. Briscoc, Mr. Tolbert Strickland, Mr. George M. Waits and others.

Before the meeting adjourned an address was made by Mr. J. C. Kimball. He called attention to the reports from various sections of the county, showing many people to be without Bibles. Her latest card is as follows:

Now they shall have them and I propose to give them, just as I believe they are recorded in heaven today. I have never received a favor trom any one without feeling grateful, and have never accepted one without returning thanks and am anxious to give every one all the credit they are entitled to. Had Dr. Morrison been here this never would have occurred, for he has been like a father and brother to me, and during my lilness last summer. Dr. Morrison a d wife sent me delicacies time and brother to me, and during my lilness last summer. Dr. Morrison a d wife sent me delicacies to Morrison's heart goes out after his sick and poor first and above all other things, and if ever there was a true Christian man and woman, theyworthily deserve the name. I was ill nearly four months, and the colored nuise referred today in the card of yesterday was with me nineteen days and was hired and paid by the chard-society. I have a bill of the same sent me at my request, and the public can see if they wish. There was another nurse hired afterwards at $3 per week, and I won't be positive, but think she was with me only one week. Then two white women each stayed two days I also received $5 from the ladies relief, which I immediately turned over on my board. Dr. Mary Hicks gave michaely with the man in priat, but I was not aware till now, that it was necessary to publish the matter in order to prove I was both grateful and humble. Mr. Jones draw up the permit for me to add his signature. I then went to Rev. Mr. Lee, paster of Trinity church, for the purpose of securing his signature. I sent in my name by his little daughter, saying I wanted to see him only for a moment on important business. The daughter brought back the message, "Papa is resting and cannot be disturbed." The serv. ant came to the door just then and I repeated my message. She replied the same as the child. I then asked for Miss Lee, whose voice I could hear. She said: "Tell her!" m too tired to see anyone." One week before my illness I attended Irr. Lee's prayer meeting; and after service I went forward and introduced myself to him, telling him I could not attend my own church (being too ill to walk so prayer meeting, and after service I went forward and introduced myself to him, telling him I could not attend my own church (being too ill to walk so far), and would he be kind enough to make me acquainted with some of his members, that I might enjoy church fellowship with then? He insisted on my removing my letter to his church, but I replied that I was devoted to my own, and should never leave it while Dr. Morrison was its pastor; and previous to this Mr. Marsh tried to secure his church for me to lecture in. Then how can he, with a clear conscience, say publicly to his people that he never knew me? Can Dr. Lee deny this? A certain Christian gentleman went to him last week and told him there was a widow woman in West End with three children and she was very destitute. What can you do to relieve her? The gentleman said: "I have given all I could, but that is not enough."

Mr. Pender is a commercial traveler and snows Mr. Nelson very well, having met him on a previous trip to Atlanta. and as he had a business transaction with him, and considerable conversation took place at this time, he is certain that he was not mistaken as to Nelson's defaulty.

A Constitution reporter met Mr. Pender as about to take a train for Savannah, and was about to take a train for Savannah, and was about to take a train for Savannah, and was about to take a train for Savannah, and was about to take a train for Savannah, and was about to take a train for Savannah, and was about to take a train for Savannah, and was about to take a train for savannah, and was about to take a train for savannah, and was about to take a train for savannah, and was about to take a train for savannah, and was about to take a train for savannah, and was about to take a train for savannah, and was about to take a train for savannah, and was about to take a train for savannah, and was about to take a train for savannah, and was about to take a train for savannah, and was certain t was Nelson, and spoke to him, saying:

"How are you, Mr. Nelson?" at the same timefoffering his hand.

His offer to shake hands was refused, and Nelson got hutriedly on his train, saying as he turned away:

"My name is not Nelson."

But Mr. Pender was evidently not mistaken, for his description of the missing banker is a perfect one. And there is further evidence that he was in Chattanooga at that time, as The Constitution has received a special from Mr. E. C. Penffey, stating that he was seen in that city Sunday menning.

Mr. Bruffey's telegram is dated at Bristol, Tehm, and says that Nelson was seen and recognized by Mr. James Freeman, whe is well acquainted with Nelson.

The telegram says that Nelson refused to the profit of the meeting and Nelson left Chattanooga by the Louisville and Nashville route.

A Great Institution for Atlanta, and One that Will Receive the Encourage-ment of Her People.

Atlanta has today what she has never had pefore—a first-class Turkish bath institution. It is a success, and will continue to be so, as long as it maintains the high character it has started out with. Mr. Caldicotte, the proprietor, is a gentleman of fine business attainments, and is backed by ample capital. The bath fixtures have cost him alone over ten thousand dollars, which fact insures the public that the best and finest bath system in America

He has not only the Turkish bath, but the needle bath, the electric bath, shower bath, olunge bath, medicated bath, and several other kinds, but THE CONSTITUTION'S representative has forgotten their names. It will do you good to go to his institute and look through it. You will see conveniences you never dreamed of, luxuries that were unheard of, and a world of other things that will convince you that you ought to become a patron of this institution.

The Turkish bath system has many advan tages. It cleanses the skin, making it soft, elastic and firm. It improves and clears the complexion, and tranquilizes the brain. It oothes and quiets the nerves and increase their energy. It invigorates, hardens and strengthens the system. It relieves pain and removes stiffness of joints. It renovates, equalizes and purifies the system. With freedom from contracting disease, or danger from nfection; freedom from any weakening effects: freedom from the stifling hot room o the inhalation of any vapor from the bath, will make Mr. Caldicotte's institute one of great worth and popularity to our people. He cordially invites you to come and look through. His institute is directly under the Traders bank building.

Roanoke College.

Roanoke College. Virginia, is steadily making substantial progress. During the past session the endowment fund was increased $20,000 by three bequests in Roanoke county, and about 1,000 volumes was added to the library, which now numbers risce than 16,000 volumes. The last graduating class represented eight states and Mexico; the students came from fourteen states, two territories and Mexico; and the graduates are to be found in twenty-eight states and territories, and two foreign countries. Two assistant professors—Wythe F. Morehead and William A. Smith—have leave of absence to study in Germany. The college offers several very full courses for degrees, Special attention is given to English, French and German. A business department has been established. As it is open, without extra charge, to candidates for degrees, the graduates of Roanoke need not be subject to the reproach, commonly urged against college graduates, that they know nothing of methods of doing business. For the advantages offered, Roanoke is one of our most economical colleges. With respect to climate, beautiful natural surroundings, and moral, social and religious advantages, the college is especially favored.

The very hot weather for the past few days has made the people especially interested in the new system of refrigeration. A reporter of THE CONSTITUTION dropped into the office of Mr. H. I. Kimball, and the following conrersation ensued:
"Mr. Kimball, I called to ascertain if you

KEEP COOL.

tion in Atlanta

-How the Work is Progressing-When It Will be in Operation.

and commenced the delivery of refrigerators fitted up with your system yet."

"I am very glad to answer that question through THE CONSTITUTION, as I answer it very often upon the streets, and I am sure that there is much interest taken in the subject, and apparently it is not well understood. The establishment of a business of the character and magnitude of this refrigerating business, is one that requires time, and very much more time than would be required if the business was not new. Every workman has to be educated, and it is very difficult to get the material to work with. My own business, as I have before stated to The Constitution, is in the distilling and refrigerating apparatus, and organizing local companies to take charge of the business after stills have been erected. But in order to facilitate the local company, in getting an early start in the usiness, the company I represent have gone forward and prepared a number of domestic and market refrigerators, also fitted up six or eight cold storage rooms in this building. These rooms are ready for piping, and one has been piped, but it would be impracticable to put eight cold storage rooms in this building. These rooms are ready for piping, and one has been piped, but it would be impracticable to put them into operation, and put in goods for storage while the workmen are still engaged in fitting these in connection with them with the doors constantly open and many people running in and out would defeat the very object in view, and I think the local company will do remarkably well if they get these series of rooms in condition for the reception of goods by the first of the coming month. They have already commenced fitting up the basement for what they term a cheaper class of cold storage, such as molasses, lard, &c., which will not require a temperature below 55 or 60 degrees."

"Has the local company accepted, and taken charge of the plant, as you call it, yet?"

"Fractically, yes, formally no. By the terms of our contract with the company it has until the 15th of this month for examinations and tests, and is devoting this week to a series of tests. Colonel T. M. R. Talcott, one of the directors, and an expert in such matters, is giving the matter the most careful attention, and the committees are scrutinizing very closely every item of expense in connection with the refrigerating and cold storage department. We have no disposition to hurry them, for we know that the closer they examine them the better they will be satisfied, and they know we have to pay the rent up to the time of their acceptance and taking possession of the plant, for which they've not formally done yet, but I have heard individual expressions from nearly every member of the board, I think, and they are all highly pleased, and satisfied that the apparatus will do very much more than is guaranteed by the contract."

"Well, how soon do you think they will be ready to supply refrigerators to citizens?"

"We are working at that for them as rapidly as possible, and have a dozen or more pipe-fitters preparing piping for Phelan's dairy, the Markham house, Durand's restaurant, Crawford's meat market, Echols & R

"Do you think the local company will do much at domestic refrigeration this season?"
"I do not think that they can afford to do so, for the reason that the demand from parties who require a much larger amount of refrigeration will pay them much better. You see it takes very little more trouble or expense to suitable a consumer who You see it takes very little more trouble or expense to supply a consumer who will pay them from $15 to $60 per month than it does to supply a customer who would pay them from two to five dollars per month for domestic refrigerators. I know, however, that they are fitting up refrigerators for Mr. Collier, Mr. O. C. Fuller, Mr. M. C. Kiser and Governor Bullock, and in the course of sixty days they may be able to supply oshers, but the public should bear in mind that this local company has only been organized little more than a week, and it has not yet called in the first installment on the capital stock, and it could hardly be expected to organize a force and put itself in condition to commence earning money or put out their product the first week."

"Did you not expect to lay the pipes in the streets and get in working order sooner your-streets and get in working order sooner yourself?"

"Yes, I did. but I did not understand or appreciate the difficulties in procuring the proper fittings and appliances. We expected to commence laying pipe in the streets before this, and on the 12th of May I ordered from Messrs.
Hunnicult and Bellingrath a sufficient quantity of material to lay about one mile of pipe, which I thought would have been laid in the ground long before this, but they have not been able to get more than one-fourth of the fittings required, and I very much doubt if they get them in time to commence laying pipe before the first of August, and yet they had no trouble in putting up an entire pumping system and laying a mile of pipe four times the size of the pipe we require, at Salt Springs, in ten days. The trouble is a sudden and unprecedented demand has been created for this class of goods, and Atlanta is only one of twenty or thirty cities that are demanding them—and we must wait our turn.
Yes, you may say to the public for me that I created for this class of goods, and Atlanta is only one of twenty or thirty cities that are demanding them—and we must wait our turn. Yes, you may say to the public for me that I am disappointed in not getting the appliances more rapidly, but I am not disappointed in the outcome of the enterprise. The more I study it, the more I know of it, and the more familiar I become with its difficulties the more its great possibilities are opened up to me, and I tell you that this system of refrigeration is going to do more for this southern country than anything that has ever been presented during my twenty-two years' residence here. It is the hot weather that makes people anxious for more perfect refrigerators, but it has not been sixty days since our first shipment was landed here, and with all the delays consequent upon inability to secure proper rittings, I doubt if any enterprise in this city of similar magnitude has been started as quickly. The distilling apparatus is in perfect order and working beautifully, and our expert engineer turns it over completed and leaves for New York today."

Dealers who claim that their preparations are "as good as Hood's Sarsaparilla," by so doing admit that Hood's is the standard and possesses peculiar merit which they try in vain to reach.

pound in Oakview district, occupied the entire day.

Messrs. Candler, Thompson & Candler represented the defendants, and Solicitor O'Bryan and Messrs. W. P. Hill and James L. Mayson appeared for the prosecution.

The defense raised the point that the stock law being unconstitutional, the prisoners had committed no crime.

The case was elaborately argued, and Judge VanEpps reserved his decision.

A creditor's bill against Beerman, the alleged bigamist, was yesterday filed in the superior court by Messrs. J. M. McAfee and Walter R. Brown, in behalf of Julius Goetlieb, who holds a mortgage for $300. Judge Richard H. Clark heard the case and appointed Mr. W. Sibley temporary receiver. Judge Richard H. Clark has finished all his chamber business and will leave Atlanta tor Macon this morning.

WITH AN UMBRELLA.

Dr. Badger, a Colored Dentist, Was on the Warpath. Yesterday morning, about 10 o'clock, there was a lively little scene at the corner Wall and Pryor streets.

Dr. Badger, a colored dentist, his daughter, an umbrella and two dudish young negroes were the actors in the scene that drew the crowd.

Dr. Badger's daughter is a belle among the young people of her race, and the trouble yesterday grew out of the forward conduct of two wers switten with her young negroes who were smitten with her charms.

In fact, she says they insulted her, and she hunted up her father and told him about it. Dr. Badger took the warpath at once, and, finding the two negroes at the corner of Wall and Pryor streets, Dr. Badger opened fire with his umbrella and succeeded in making things very interesting for both of the colored fellows and wrecking his umbrella.

The lady went to a boarding house on Wheat street, and was seen by a Constitution

Wheat street, and was seen by a Constitution reporter last night. She stated that her husband had deserted her in Knoxyille, Tenn., leaving her without a word of warning, and almost destitute of money.

She is evidently of a vindictive disposition and expresses a desire to meet her husband once more, and it is certain, judging from her manner, that he will regret it.

The man in the case is a shoemaker by trade and the shops in Atlanta will probably be visited today by a lady in search of a husband, who will have a cowhide concealed in the folds of her dress.

From One You All Know.

I have been handling Invigorine in my drug busine's for the past two years, and knowing the formula, can say for it what I cannot for many preparations. It is a scientific preparation, and one of the best combinations I ever saw. It contains no opium in any form, or any other drug that will in jure any, one in the least taken as directed. I have sold a great deal of it, and it has given the best of satisfaction and accomptished what is claimed for it. I can as a druggist conscientiously recommend it to the afflicted. L. H. SEE WHAT A PHYSICIAN SAYS.

WADLEY, Ga., January 30, 1888.

It affords me pleasure to say that Invigorine is the fluest product of the age to re-establish the prostrate fabric. It tones up the nervous system better, makes the steadiest nerves, strongest muscles and richest blood of any remedy I have ever had recourse to, and does more good in Bright's disease of the kidneys than all other remedies advertised so extensively for the cure of that trouble. It is that combination of vegetable tonics, nervines and alteratives with iron, that acts upon the secretions admirably, while it increases appetite, improves digestion, quiets irritated nerves and purifies the blood, and hence it is justly held in high esteem by the ladies for tiding them sweetly over the menopanse, that change in life that simulates so many diseases. Wishing you great success, I remain yours truly,
